MRS. LINNELL'S STORY OF AVIS' WEDDING RING

Mrs. Edgar Linnell, mother of Avis Linnell, whom Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson murdered by poison, says that the minister gave her daughter a wedding ring in 1909. Her testimony, on record at the Court House, is as follows on this point:

"Avis did not know that Mr. Richeson was to buy the ring until he gave it to her.

"Helen said she was with Mr. Richeson when he bought the ring on December 17, (1909), and two days later, on Avis's birthday, Mr. Richeson presented her with the ring at our home.

"Avis remarked: 'I shall wear it on my right hand, so (displaying the ring and finger) until we are married, and then I shall wear it on the third finger of the left hand like all married women.'

RICHESON FALSE TO GOD AND MAN, SAYS DR. HORR

The Rev. Dr. George E. Horr, president of the Newton Theological Institution, from which Clarence Richeson graduated, in a discussion before the students of that institution to-day of the Richeson murder case, under the title, "Responsibility of the Institution," characterized the condemned clergyman as the world's worst criminal.

A clergyman who debauches a young girl and then takes her life, Dr. Horr said, is as bad as any man can be in this world. He said that he could not say as to the ultimate salvation of Richeson—he did not know as to the sincerity of his penitence, all that can be done is to leave his fate with God.

President Horr said that Richeson had come to the institution with proper credentials and that in the opinion of the faculty he was barely of average mental capacity and attainments, but to say that he was a genius would be to exaggerate.

Here is President Horr's address to the students in full:

"Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson entered this seminary at the Autumn session of 1906. Our requirement for admission was described in the following paragraph from the catalogue of that year, which stated conditions as they were at that time:

"Those applying for admission must give evidence of genuine piety and of gifts adapting them to the work of the ministry. They must present a license to preach or a vote of the church to which they belong approving their purpose to study for the ministry."

Mr. Richeson was carefully examined by the faculty; he met these qualifications, having been ordained at the Third Church, St. Louis, September 10, 1902, and his Christian character was vouched for by responsible persons.

He pursued the three years course in the seminary, graduating two years ago last June. His conduct, during his connection with us, so far as we know, was without reproach. I do not remember that any act or word of his called for any criticism or even reference in the meetings of the faculty.

After honorable graduation he pursued some studies for another year under the direction of the faculty, as a post-graduate student. He wished to enter as a candidate for the master's degree. The faculty refused to permit this on the ground that his general scholarship and capacity did not qualify him to enter as a candidate.

Faculty's Opinion of Him.

In the opinion of the faculty, Mr. Richeson was a young man of good character and of social graces, but barely of average mental capacity and attainments. The statement that he was a genius, an unusual scholar and orator is not at all in accord with our estimate of him. We anticipated for him a faithful ministry, but we could not forecast any special eminence. The impression that we thought that he was a man of brilliant intelligence, of profound thought or of striking pulpit gifts is entirely erroneous.

During the year and a half before last October we saw little of him. He was settled in Cambridge and was scarcely seen in Newton. He had no closer relation to the seminary than any other graduate.

The statement that the seminary was requested at any time, by the Immanuel Church of Cambridge, or by the Hyannis Church, or by any person, to investigate the relations of Mr. Richeson with Miss Linnell is absolutely and totally false. And, furthermore, the seminary never took part in any such investigation.

We know nothing about his marriage engagements, except the common report that he had been engaged during his student days to some one; that the engagement had been broken, and that he was now engaged to a Brookline lady. We supposed that the parties immediately interested had satisfied themselves as to the correctness of his conduct. The claim that a theological seminary should investigate the love affairs of its graduates is rather preposterous.

Now this man Richeson stands convicted of colossal crimes. He faces the death penalty. The fact that we knew him; that he studied in these halls, attended our worship, and shared our life, must not blind our eyes to the enormity of his sin. All personal considerations, all desire of shielding him or any one, his family, his friends, the seminary or the church of Christian causes in general, must be put aside while we think of this sin as it ought to be thought of.

Every class or profession has its central virtue. A woman who is unchaste, a man who lies, a trustee who is treacherous is not in the ranks of decent people. There is a point of honor in every situation that hold every true man. He may be bad about a thousand things, but he will not go wrong about that, or he is not a man. This principle applies to ministers of religion. The minister has access to homes and to family life as perhaps no other man has. He is accepted as the moral guide and counsellor of the young. That trust is sacred.

The Point of Honor.

It is the point of honor. In the company of their minister a father and mother suppose that their daughter is safe. We can hardly imagine a more heinous crime than for a minister of a religion to debauch a young girl of his parish, a girl whom he has baptized and in whose family he has been received as pastor.

It is easy to understand sins of passion when the wild beast of one's nature springs upon the better man; but it is not easy to understand the treachery to God and to man, the utter baseness of one who is guilty of a sin like that. It is worse than the treachery of the watchman who surrenders the keys of the city. It is the trusted watchman becoming an armed enemy. It is a sin that strikes at the very integrity of manhood.

Much is said about a minister's being only a man among men, and the implication of the phrase often is that we ought not to expect conduct in a minister greatly different from the prevalent code.

But I tell you, my brethren, if a minister is only a man among men, if he does not rise above other men in purity of thought and motive and conduct, he is not fit to be a minister. You might as well say that it is not necessary for a naval commander to be more skilful in navigation than other men, or for a soldier not to be braver than other men. The integrity of his moral life, the wholesomeness of his reactions in every situation, is the essential qualification of a minister.

Development of the Tragedy.

After this girl had been debauched, there was but one course open to Richeson, and that was to marry her; but the vision of wealth and social position had dawned on him. These seemed to be possible through alliance with the Brookline family. I will not dwell on the details. The course of events is perfectly clear. To carry out his purpose it was necessary to make way with the girl who had become his victim.

I need not remind you of the cold-blooded heartlessness with which the purpose was fulfilled, the sermons in his church the day after the girl died, the suspicions aroused in the public mind, the protestations of innocence to his relatives and friends and the church, the deceptions practiced on his counsel, his self-mutilation, and finally the confession, closing in the death sentence.

Seldom has a man had more stalwart friends, but he has betrayed friends and enemies with equal indifference. Our deepest sympathies go out to the two families, one in Hyannis, the other at Brookline, which he has so grievously wronged.

As to the lady to whom he was to have been married in October, I have no fears as to her future. She has shown that she is a brave, true-hearted woman. I do not doubt that her moral revulsion against the man who won her affection is complete. He has not harmed her, except as one is harmed by the discovery of the baseness that takes away confidence in another. And she must be thankful every day of her life that she was prevented from joining her life to that of a scoundrel.

The searching question now comes home to us, the officers and students in the seminary: How far are we responsible for the moral degeneracy of this man? In China it is said that when a son disgraces the family his father is constrained to commit suicide. The father

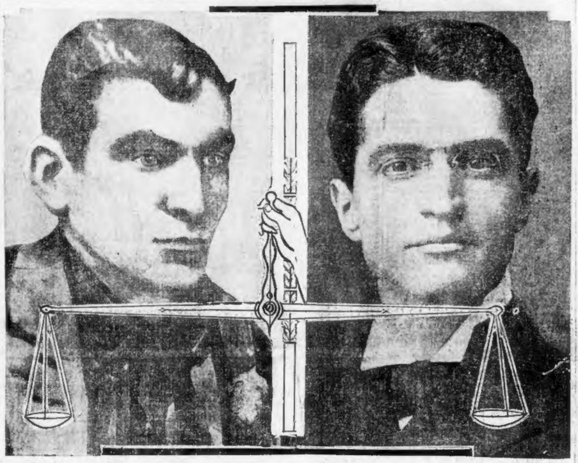
Phelps, Ignorant Woodsman Slayer; Richeson, the Educated Murderer



On the left is shown Silas N. Phelps, the countryman living on the border of Massachusetts and Vermont, who shot to death a deputy sheriff when a posse attacked his lonely cabin in the middle of the night. Phelps, now pleading for life imprisonment, declared that he believed the men were personal enemies who had threatened to "do him." At the right is a picture of the Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, a Virginian of good family, traveled, educated, and a minister of the gospel, who deliberately plotted to poison the girl who believed she was his wife that he might marry a rich Brookline girl and advance his position in the ministry.

By a strange decree of Fate two men of striking contrasts are to appeal to the executive authority of the State—one within a few days and the other some weeks later—for their lives. Both men have taken human life and the law has said that they must die.

Eliminating the question as to whether capital punishment is legalized murder, the fact remains that it lies within the power of ten men in this State to save the life of any man or woman condemned to death—these ten men being Governor Foss, Lieutenant-Governor Luce and the eight members of the Executive Council.

The two men who ask for their lives are Silas N. Phelps, a countryman, illiterate and uncouth, of the mountain district in the northwestern part of the State, near the Vermont line, and the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, a Virginian, educated, travelled, talented—a teacher of morality and Christianity.

There could hardly be a greater contrast between two personalities than between Phelps and Richeson. There is just as much contrast in their crimes. Phelps had lost his job. He had quarreled and fought with the men responsible for his discharge. He says they had threatened to get even with him the next day.

That morning at dawn his cabin was stormed by armed men. Phelps says he thought it was an attack as a result of the threat to get even with him, although it was a posse led by Deputy Sheriff Haskins bent on arresting Phelps. Phelps went to the door, poked out his gun and shot Haskins dead. He says he did not know it was the sheriff. The jury considered him guilty of murder in the first degree.

Richeson's crime is incomparably more atrocious. He won the heart of a pure girl, ruined her, promised to marry her and then, scheming to get a richer wife, bought deadly poison, planning his deed in the most cold-blooded way, and gave .. to the trusting girl who took it as she would have taken it from the hand of her mother. The betrayal by Judas Iscariot was no worse.

Thus, the great problem is presented to the ten men of deciding who shall die of the two men—both, neither, or which one!

Draper alleged that he invested money in the invention and received no cash returns.

AVIS LINNELL'S MOTHER GIVES MARRIAGE CLEW

By BERT FORD.

The District Attorney's office, it was learned to-day, is satisfied that Clarence V. T. Richeson and Avis W. Linnell were married at a mock ceremony some time between December 19 and December 21, 1909.

The mother of the murdered girl, Mrs. Edgar Linnell of Hyannisport, has given testimony to substantiate the theory. It forms a part of the court records at Pemberton square.

WEDDING RING BOUGHT IN HYANNIS.

The hypothesis, which the government was prepared to drive home by a volume of evidence, is backed up by statements which Avis Linnell made to her mother, by the wedding ring which Richeson purchased in Hyannis and gave to the girl on her nineteenth birthday, December 19, 1909, and other corroborative testimony and details.

"Avis did not know that Mr. Richeson was to buy the ring until he gave it to her," said Mrs. Linnell, according to her testimony on record at the Court House.

"Helen said she was with Mr. Richeson when he bought the ring on December 17, and two days later, on Avis's birthday, Mr. Richeson presented her with the ring at our home.

"Avis remarked, 'I shall wear it on my right hand, so: (displaying the ring and finger) until we are married, and then I shall wear it on the third finger of the left hand like all married women.'

This evidence was regarded as immensely important by the prosecution. It tended to fix with more certainty than had been supposed to be possible, the date of the strange and secret ceremony which apparently only the victim whose tongue has been silenced and the doomed clergyman in his cell at the Charles Street jail were able to tell about.

It proved that if any such ceremony took place, it happened betweeen Avis Linnell's birthday on December 19 and December 21, when Mrs. Linnell and other members of the household noticed for the first time that Avis was wearing a gold band on her marriage finger, where it still remains under the snow-covered mound in the cemetery at Hyannisport.

Woman Jeweler's Story.

Richeson bought the ring at the little jewelry shop of Mrs. A. G. Guyer on the main street of Hyannis on the afternoon of December 17.

So far as Mrs. Guyer could recall he paid $5 or $6 for it. It was the regulation wedding ring of the Tiffany model.

The prosecution learned from Mrs. Guyer that Richeson came into her store with Helen Linnell, sister to Avis, who is now about sixteen. Mrs. Guyer made no record of the sale, but she recalled the instance perfectly because of the fact that the new minister bought it and that he was accompanied by Avis Linnell's younger sister.

"I want you to try it on, Helen, because your fingers are about the same size as Avis's," said Richeson, and Helen put it on the third finger of her left hand.

The government was to have introduced Helen Linnell to corroborate this detail, and Mrs. Linnell was to have furnished the supplementary evidence concerning the wedding ring.

May Appeal to Higher Court.

Should Lawyer Morse fail with the Governor and Executive Council in obtaining a commutation of the death sentence of Richeson, the case may be carried to the Supreme Judicial Court on the ground that an error was committed in allowing Richeson to plead guilty to murder in the first degree in his questionable mental state.

Lawyer Morse, commenting on this phase of the case, before going out of the city, made this statement:

"It had occurred to me that in view of the mental condition of Richeson, the action of Judge Sanderson in sentencing him to death on his plea of guilty of murder in the first degree, might be attacked on account of error, in the Supreme Judicial Court.

"At the present time, however, I do not intend to take advantage of that remedy, because of my desire to keep faith with District Attorney Pelletier."

Hoped for Life [illegible]tence.

Just what Mr. Mo[illegible]nt by keeping "faith with District [illegible]ey Pelletier" he did not explain. No explanation could be obtained at the district attorney's office of the phrase, it being declared there that there was nothing in the case, so far as

FIRE DESTROYS OXFORD MILL

OXFORD, Jan. 11.—Fire early to-day destroyed the big woolen mills of A. Howarth & Sons a mile from Oxford Centre, causing a loss of $75,000. The central three-story brick building and several smaller structures were burned to the ground, with thousands of dollars worth of newly finished woolen goods.

Help was sent here from Worcester, and the local apparatus turned out, but because of the fact that the mills were outside the town's water supply district, practically nothing could be done to keep the flames within bounds. The entire population and the whole fire department of the town had to stand about for more than an hour as spectators, because of the lack of water.

As a result of the fire 600 operatives were without work to-day.

The fire started in the main building, porbably from an overheated shaft. The mills have been running night and day for several weeks, with three shifts of workers. The blaze was discovered by the night watchman.

Part of the damage is covered by insurance. The mills will be rebuilt, but this will mean months before the mill operatives can return to work.

ACTOR HELD AS WITNESS IN CASE

Edward Hanlon, an actor, who is a witness for the government in the Augustus Seaver nomination paper forgery case, was to-day held in $1,000 surety for his appearance as a witness at the trial. It was learned by the District Attorney's office that Hanlon intended to leave the State. Through Hanlon, it is said, the government hopes to prove who it was forged the papers. Augustus Seaver, who was the labor candidate for Governor at the last gubernatorial election, and Patrick F. Sheehan, are now under indictment and await trial in connection with the case.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN NEW YORK FIRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Seven lives are believed to have been lost in a fire which gutted a three-story frame building on Bronxdale avenue early to-day. Those supposed to have perished in the flames, which spread so rapidly through the wooden structure that the firemen say that none could have escaped, are Thomas McDonough, his wife and five boarders, whose names are unknown to the police.

the district attorney is concerned, for Mr. Morse to keep faith about.

District Attorney Pelletier to-day made this statement:

"There was no understanding between Mr. Morse and myself. I am not going before the Governor's Council."

Richeson apparently believed that the death sentence would be commuted because he said in his confession—supposed to have been written for him by his lawyers—that he made the confession with the hope that he could spend the rest of his days behind prison walls and make his peace with God.

In this connection it may be said that Judge Sanderson took every precaution to ascertain just where he stood when he accepted Richeson's plea, having taken care to inquire into his mental condition. Lawyer John L. Lee, before leaving for the South, declared that it could not have been established that Richeson was legally insane, but that he was abnormal at times.

According to the prosecution, Mr. Richeson either performed a fake ceremony himself or duped the little choir singer into the belief that she was his legal wife without the customary formalities, demanded by ecclesiastical and civil law.

The introduction of Mrs. Guyer, as a witness, to the sale of the wedding ring to the former pastor of the little white meetinghouse of Hyannis, was to have been one of the trump cards played by the government at the trial.

Richeson Took the Diamond.

Despite their failure after an exhaustive search to find any marriage records or certificates, the police and prosecuting officials are convinced that Miss Linnell supposed she was "Mrs. Richeson." She got a diamond engagement ring some time before and the government intended to offer evidence by means of the testimony of her parents and other members of the family to prove that Avis had worn both the diamond ring and the wedding ring for a time and later Richeson took the diamond. It would have been shown also that this diamond engagement ring had been used by Richeson to seal other promises of marriage to other girls, as the Linnells subsequently learned. The wedding ring was buried with Avis Linnell.

The government was prepared to combat the expected attack upon their marriage theory by collateral evidence dealing with the intimacies between Richeson and his victim. They would refute the inevitable criticism that the girl would not have considered her friendship wrong if she believed herself his wife, by introducing a volume of evidence to show that Avis Linnell was completely under the domination of a man whom she worshipped and whose position in life and whose religious associations caused her to regard him as far above her.

The government would have shown that although bright and talented above the average girl of her years, Miss Linnell was a plaything in the hands of Richeson; that she trusted him implicitly; that he found no difficulty in persuading her, and that in order to become worthy of being a minister's wife she resolved to educate herself as far as possible before the promised wedding which Richeson knew would never take place. That was why she consented to leave the comforts and protection of her seashore home for the first time in her life to study music in Boston.

The government was ready to show that Richeson had coached her in this and that, although her desire to take up lodgings away from her parents was actuated solely to develop her education, he had the deeper motive of getting her within reach when the time was ripe for his murder plot. The government considers that his premeditation was a matter of long standing.

It would have offered evidence to the effect that Miss Linnell had no sooner arranged for her lodgings at the Young Women's Christian Association on Warrenton street last September before Richeson telephoned and lost no time conferring with Avis in one of the parlors.

It might be argued that Avis Linnell would have been only too glad to make public a notice of her wedding in order to save her name. The government was prepared to show that this was the very thing Richeson had cautioned her against. His injunctions in this direction had been so severe that her relatives and intimate friends were to have been summoned to testify that she refrained from even using his name with very few exceptions, invariably referring to him as "my friend."

The girls at the Young Women's Association headquarters all understood whom she meant when she used this term, because, as their unanimous testimony would have established, she was so loyal to one man.

Climate Failed—Medicine Cured

It has been absolutely shown that rest, fresh air, and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But, to be really honest, it must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alterative is a medicine made for the cure of Tuberculosis. It has cured this disease again and again. Often these cures have been effected where the surroundings were not ideal, where no intelligent care was taken of the patient, where money was scarce, good food and good cooking unusual—yet cures resulted. Now we argue and urge that Eckman's Alterative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need.

The facts—the evidence of cures that have been made—are interesting reading. A remarkable cure follows:

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen:—Through Eckman's Alterative I have been saved from a premature grave, and, feeling that I might benefit suffering humanity, I take pleasure in writing you a brief history of my sickness, which you are at liberty to use.

"On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 21st, 1905, was advised to go Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung broke and discharged. I grew worse, and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas June 1st, and arrived in Canon City June 3d, very feeble. After being there two weeks, my physician informed me that nothing could be done, as my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption, it having been highly recommended. Today I weigh 158 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and never felt better. I would be glad if every person afflicted with Tuberculosis took Eckman's cure."

(Signed Affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever; Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all Riker-Jaynes Stores, Houghton & Dutton Drug Dept., and other leading druggists. reasons that if his instruction and training had been right the son would not have gone astray. We should ask, in all honesty and thoroughness, has there been aught in the character of our lives here, in the instruction, in the ideals and the temper of this seminary that brings home to us responsibilities for this tragedy?

I do not desire to evade that question. I court the fullest examination of all that is said and done here. Doubtless, we are not perfect, but I do not feel that we can take any share of the responsibility. We cannot look into the inner lives of one another. We do not claim to be infallible in our judgments of character. When a young man brings good credentials, when he conducts himself creditably and manifests devotion to spiritual things, we have a right to assume that he may become a worthy minister.

And it seems to me that the searching question to which I have referred should be asked not only by the faculty of itself, but by the student body of itself. Have we always, in season and out of season, stood for the highest and best things? Has there ever been a tendency to imagine that our privilege emancipated us from common duties? Have we always frowned down the low, the coarse, the questionable? These are questions to which I believe we can make as fair an answer as any student body in the land. But we cannot help asking them.

Lessons For Young Ministers.

I want you to notice that the sins which have resulted in this frightful tragedy are not rare, extraordinary ones. The temptations to which he yielded are just the common ones that beset us all—the temptations to lust and greed.

Richeson is only exceptional in the cold-blooded, heartlessness with which he subordinated every consideration of honor and fidelity to his own egotism—to his pleasure and to his ambition. Do not think you emancipate yourselves from these common temptations and their dreadful power by securing a license from your church, by entering upon a course of theological study, or by ordination to the ministry. These common temptations always lie in wait to undo us. And the warning I give you I take as deeply to myself. There is no safety except in the purpose that co-ordinates all our powers, by divine grace, to human good and the service of God.

Most of the time we confront sin only in its germ forms. We see the seeds, but not the full-grown plant and its fruitage. The small dishonesty with one's self, the lustful thought petted and nourished, the disregard of other's rights, the purpose to promote one's own ends at any cost, the willingness to use one's spiritual privileges for self-aggrandizement. We think lightly sometimes, perhaps, in our laxer moments, of such inclinations and tendencies. They are only seeds, the germ forms of evil, but in this tragedy of a soul we see the seed bringing forth its ripe fruit. If we all could only see sin, habitually, as we see it to-day, in this fullgrowth, there would be no need of any other appeal to righteousness than the victim of sin.

Richeson Himself.

You will expect me to say something about Richeson himself. I am glad that before his execution he has time for reflection, time to see his acts in their proper perspective—time to repent. Is repentance possible? We must believe it. Will his repentance be actual? No man can ever say. I hope we may be spared the confident declarations of sentimental religionists that the man is saved. No man can say that. We cannot read hearts. We can hardly understand the tremendous upheaval of one's entire nature that must be involved in a real repentance for such blackness of sin. We must leave Richeson with God. There is very little that any man can do for him.

The moral problem is tremendous. Such wrongs open up the deepest abysses of human nature and of the divine judgment. Phillips Brooks once asked, in substance: "What shall we say of the man who, in his youth, debauched some trusting girl, afterwards repented and reformed and today is a pillar in church and State, while the girl went to the bad, became a curse to herself and to others, and finally drifted down to hell? Has that man's repentance atoned his sin?"

That is a tremendous qestion. Tolstoi tried to answer it in his "Resurrection." Perhaps he answered it in the only way it can be answered apart from the mystery of God's grace. The rich, strong man gave his life to redeeming the harlot his sin had made.

Earthly Hope Is Gone.

There is no chance for Richeson to make that kind of atonement. He cannot bring back Avis Linnell, the sweet singer in the village choir, who perhaps believed herself a lawful wife. He cannot undo the widespread ruin his lust and greed, springing from his unbounded egotism, have wrought, and all under the cloak of religion.

We have no right to deny the possibility of a thorough repentance to any human soul. We have no right to set limits to the mercy of God in Jesus Christ. The gospel has a message even to a man like Richeson. But in the nature of the case nothing that Richeson can say or do will have the slightest weight as evidence of his repentance. The conditions preclude that. Nothing that any man can do for him now will avail much.

All that we can do for him is to pray for him. The earthly tribunal has judged him. He is soon to stand before the judgment seat of Christ. May He have mercy on his soul.

AMERICAN PLANS ICE CARNIVAL

Attention, SKATERS!

The AMERICAN is going to hold a big Ice Carnival on the Charles River Basin for the skaters of Greater Boston and all New England. The date is the afternoon of Saturday, January 20—next Saturday week. It will be the best sporting event of its kind ever held in this section of the country.

Skaters have already begun to sit up and take notice. No wonder, for the events the AMERICAN have arranged will bring out the speediest skaters in New England. There's a chance for everybody in the variety of events on the card for the Carnival, and an attractive list of prizes for the winners, which will be certain to prove a feature in itself.

Features for the meet will be numerous. All the championship events will be held with the sanction of the New England Skating Association. There will be championship racing on skates over quarter-mile, two-mile and five-mile courses, and all records made will stand.

These races alone will be sufficient to insure not only a pretty active competition among the best lot of skaters in this section of the country, but also give thousands of spectators the thrills of some spectacular and interesting work on the Charles River ice.

Nothing of the kind has ever been done on the same big scale as this big carnival which the AMERICAN has arranged for the skaters of New England.

The news is sure to be hailed with delight by hundreds, for just at this time skating heads the list of popular sports, and certainly one couldn't find any place anywhere in which the devotees of the sport are keener for racing on the ice than in Boston.

The prizes will be given in all the events, and there will be opportunities for all skaters, young and old, to compete and have the same chance of being victorious as any other competitor. From the standpoint of pure attractiveness, the AMERICAN'S Carnival promises to outdo all past performances on the ice in New England.

A big side feature will be the hockey game the Ice Carnival Editor is arranging between teams, the names and makeup of which are to be announced later on.

There will be events for boys, too, so that everybody will be given a chance. The fastest there are on skates will have their time to shine, and those that may not be so able on their feet on the ice will have their fun just the same.

The championship events will be over distances calculated to bring out the best there is in the most expert of the skaters. The only provision for entry in these classes is that entrants must be registered with the New England Skating Association.

Those skaters who have not registered up to date should do so at once, in order to come in for the championships. Write your communications on this matter to Arthur L. Johnson, secretary, No. 180 Devonshire street, Boston.

There will be no entrance fees charged to anyone. Outside the championship events, all others on the afternoon's card will be open to all, regardless of affiliations with skating organizations. There will be absolutely no charge for entrance in any event.

Just at this time the ice on the Charles River basin, according to the experts, is in the best condition in years. They say they never knew it to be better than it is to-day, and the recent weather changes have tended to make the ice wellnigh perfect. At present the ice is eight inches thick and just right for the best kind of sport.

Next Sunday the AMERICAN will make a detailed announcement of the Carnival events prizes, features and so forth. You want to be certain to read next Sunday's AMERICAN to learn all about the big Carnival, how to enter and what to do to be in line for the attractive prizes the AMERICAN is offering.

This one condition is made—if the ice is not suitable next Saturday week for the Carnival events, the meet will come off on the Saturday following, which will be January 27. But every indication now is that conditions Saturday week will be ideal.

All communications and entries, requests for information and so on, must be addressed to the Ice Carnival Editor, Boston AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

BOARD SEEKS TO END STRIKE

The State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration this afternoon began a determined effort to end the strike of the longshoremen, sending a communication to the members of the transatlantic steamship conference and the striking longshoremen, represented by the executive committee of District Assembly 30, K. of L.

The board declares that the difficulty between the longshoremen and their employers should be submitted immediately to a board of arbitration, either State or local, as provided by law, and asks for a conference at the State House to-day at 3 o'clock. The board states that such action should be agreed upon by the two parties for the best interests of the public.

One of the paragraphs of the communication sent out by the board reads:

"There exists no reasons why the parties to this dispute should not at once select a tribunal to pass upon its merits. The parties have a moral obligation to the public which it is their privilege to serve, which obligation requires this action on their part. To this end the board invites the parties to a conference at the office of the board in the State House, Room No. 128, at three o'clock in the afternoon of this day, or at such hour to-morrow as may be mutually agreed upon. Each party is requested to notify the other and the board of its acceptance or rejection of this proposal."

The communication is signed by Bernard F. Supple, secretary.

The strikers will consider the offer of the board at to-night's meeting.

One hundred longshoremen, who are members of East Boston Assembly No. 5789, but who have been working as freight handlers at the various piers in East Boston, mostly at the Leyland line, were called out at 10 o'clock this morning. These men, being longshoremen, were called out by the longshoremen's committee, and not by the freight handlers.

According to John Wylde, of Patterson, Wylde & Co., there is no truth in any report that the strike of the longshoremen will be settled. He admits that great pressure has been brought to bear by the members of the Fruit and Produce Exchange, the Chamber of Commerce and other interested parties, more especially from shippers of perishable goods, but "whatever pressure is brought to bear under no circumstances will the longshoremen's demands be granted. The steamship men are unanimous in this decision, despite all reports to the contrary. Our position is based upon existing conditions, and we cannot grant these demands," said Mr. Wylde.

Mr. Wylde was asked if he thought the New York longshoremen would handle freight diverted from Boston? He said: "I do not know, but they can turn the whole United States upside down, and we will be right where we were when we started."

The Russ, which is owned by the Russian Steamship Navigation Company, was commanded by Captain Pshomeff. She went down in a gale on the way from Galetz to Odessa, carrying everybody on board with her.

WOMAN'S SUIT WINS $23,000

SALEM, Jan. 11.—Miss Charlotte Fairfield, Salem's leading business woman and a coal dealer, after ten years was awarded a verdict of $23,025.08.

Miss Fairfield's suit against the City of Salem was based on the filling in of her wharf on the South river with filth and accumulations from part of the city's sewerage system, which drained directly into it. Coal consigned to Miss Fairfield was here unloaded.

The filling in of her wharf, Miss Fairfield contended, necessitated coal for her being shipped to Beverly and thence to Salem by rail, with increased freight charges as a consequence.

Miss Fairfield several years ago made a request on the city of Salem to dredge the river fronting on the wharf. Upon failure of the city to do this Miss Fairfield brought suit for damages.

MUSIC STUDENTS WHO APPEARED AT CONSERVATORY

MAUD WESSON.

ESTELLE REUBEN

Miss Wesson and Miss Reuben are two of the prettiest and most promising students at the Conservatory of Music.

Students of the New England Conservatory of Music performed excellently at a concert last night in Jordan Hall before a large and appreciative audience. The selections were rendered with exquisite technical and tonal effects and the applause was generous.

Miss Violet Hernandez of Waltham played Widor's Allegro Cantabile for the organ. Miss Abbie Conley and Nahum Gillespie sang Buwald's well known duet, "Still wie die Nacht," with great expression.

Beethoven's Theme Varie was rendered by Miss Elizabeth Bell with fine technique. Herbert Kearsley sang Huhn's Invictus" excellently. Miss Maude Wesson played three Henselt selections for the piano. Miss Esther Reuben rendered several selections with admirable effect.

CLOTHED BY A 'MILLIONAIRE'

"If your husband has not supported you, where did you get all the expensive clothing you are wearing?" was the question Judge O'Brien asked Mrs. Alice M. Clarke, in the Lynn District Court, to-day, where she appeared charging her husband, Herbert J., with non-support.

"An elderly friend of mine, Harold Leland, a Brookline millionaire, bought them for me. He paid $250 for this sable coat, while the plume in that hat cost $35. In the past two years he has bought me several thousand dollars' worth of clothes. He takes a fatherly interest in me, and I never want for anything. I have the best clothing of any girl in Lynn, but I have no happiness. My husband never provides for me. He tries to starve me. I started divorce proceedings against him last Summer, but he promised to do better and I withdrew them."

The husband testified that they had been married three years and he did the best he could. He provided for his wife up to two months ago, he said, when he lost his job.

The judge asked Clarke if he knew this Brookline man was buying his wife clothes. He replied that he did, and that he had no objections.

Judge O'Brien, in making his finding, said' "I think both of you had better go home and try to live in a state of happiness."

The couple left the court room, smiling upon each other.

STRANGERS JAR WEDDING PARTY

The Ancient Mariner never had anything on Daniel J. Horgan and Arthur L. Turner of South Boston for attending, uninvited, the wedding feast, bringing gloom where joy had reigned, and making the matter of a honeymoon a thing for the distant future, according to the tale told to Judge Logan in the South Boston District Court to-day.

The two young men were charged on the books with just plain intoxication, but the stories of Patrolmen Hurley and Regan of the City Point station, who told of the bride being knocked unconscious by a bottle hurled through a window, caused the court to score the youths severely for the harm they had wrought.

Blissful wedding bells jingled, the policemen said, in the house at No. 584 East Broadway, South Boston. Inside, John Cahill was celebrating his marriage, and the wedding guests were making merry. Morgan and Turner chanced along the street and hearing the sounds of mirth, could not withstand the temptation to pass in at the open door.

The groom, the police said, heard of it. So did his friends.

"You are unwelcome," they said to the uninvited pair.

"You'll have to get out," they added.

Because Horgan and Turner didn't get out, they were put out.

"Crash," went something through the front window of the parlor. The bridesmaids screamed. The bride, who had just been laughing with her friends, fell to the floor. Insensible, with a gash across her forehead. The bottle which had been thrown was picked up later by the police.

The men guests rushed out of the house after the fleeing Morgan and Turner. The policemen joined in. The two men were captured. Judge Logan sentenced each to-day to serve a month on Deer Island.

"This community is entitled to be protected from young men of your calibre," the judge told them. "I am determined to rid the district of men such as you."

The men entered an appeal, and then withdrew it, saying they would take their medicine.

It was reported this afternoon that Mrs. John Cahill, the bride, was still suffering from the effects of her injuries and that the couple had postponed their honeymoon.

¶ ARE YOU GIVING THE YOUNG BRIDE A TIN SHOWER? Professor Charles Bernard, household efficiency expert, says not to do it. "The wise bride," Professor Bernard says in the Sunday AMERICAN, "packs the whole glittering show away, because she knows the modern scientific kitchen calls for very few cooking utensils."

LITTLE GIRL SAVED IN FIRE AT LYNN

Three-year-old Blanche Darmecro was rescued from fire at her home, No. 1 River court, Lynn, to-day, by William Daly, a street car conductor attached to the West Lynn car barns. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Darmecro, who fled from the house with her eleven-months-old infant, while her husband carried his son to safety. When they reached the street they remembered that little Blanche was in the house. Daly groped his way through the blinding smoke into the house. On the top floor he heard the cries of a child coming from the bed. He found the little girl under the bed and nearly suffocated. He carried her to the street, where she was revived.

CHURCH BARS FAIRS, BAZAARS AND SOCIALS

WORCESTER, Jan. 11.—The Valley Falls Church, which has just been incorporated in the Valley Falls section, has placed a ban on socials, bazaars, fairs and other things held for the purpose of raising money. The congregation voted that the church must never serve for such ends. The parishioners, however, withheld the right to have socials in their own homes for church purposes. Rev. William Franklin is the pastor and Fred Spear the secretary and treasurer of the new church.

MAETERLINCK A PIE JUDGE

Who do you think has accepted an invitation to act as one of the judges of the AMERICAN'S famous mince meat contest? None other than Madame Georgette Leblanc Maeterlinck, the famous opera singer and wife of the renowned dramatist, Maurice Maeterlinck. At her country home in France she takes great delight in offering to her guests many dainty dishes which she proudly acknowledges were cooked by herself.

May Irwin, the well-known actress, author of a standard cook book and an expert in the culinary art, will also be a judge. Another judge will be Nicholas Sabatini, the chef at the Hotel Lenox.

Now, busy housewife, send in your recipe immediately. There are only a few days left. The great contest terminates Saturday night. Your recipe may be a prize winner, so do not delay in mailing it to the Mince Meat Editor. If you do not win a prize, you will assist the Department of Agriculture of the United States in determining what ingredients should constitute a good mince pie.

The AMERICAN is holding a contest to decide on the best method of making mince pie. There is a prize of $5 for the recipe which the judges decide to be the best. And there are five other prizes of $1 each for the next five best.

Send your recipe to the Mince Pie Editor, Boston AMERICAN, Boston.

Two pounds of beef, two pounds of currants, two pounds of raisins, one pound of citron, two pounds of beef suet, one an one-half pounds candied peel lemon, four pounds of apples, two pounds sultana raisins, two pounds of sugar, two nutmegs grated, one-quarter ounce of cloves, one-half ounce of cinnamon, one-quarter ounce of mace, one teaspoonful of salt, two lemons, the juice and rind, two oranges, the juice and rind; simmer the meat till tender and when perfectly cold chop it fine. Stone the raisins, shred the citron, pare, core and chop the apples, chop the suet fine. Mix the dry ingredients, then add juice and rinds of lemons and oranges.

Pack in a stone jar, cover close and keep cool. This mincemeat will keep all Winter. The rule is an old one, and is said to have come from the Curtis family in the beginning. According to Virginia tradition, the Widow Curtis, who became Mrs. Washington, made famous mince pies.

Two pounds lower round of beef, 2 pounds layer raisins, two pounds currants, two pounds suet of beef, four teaspoons grated nutmeg, one pound citron (shredded), one-fourth ounce cloves, one-fourth ounce mace, one-half ounce cinnamon, one-half pound candied lemon peel, two pounds Sultana raisins, two pounds sugar, one teaspoon salt, two oranges, two lemons (juice and rind), one quart sherry and quart good brandy, cover meat with water and simmer until tender, let cool then chop fine; pare, core and chop the apples, also the suet, stone the raisins, shred the citron, take juice of the oranges and lemons, first grating off the rinds, add this to mixture, cut fine the candied lemon peel and add, rub currants well between the hands to take off all stems, then wash thoroughly in a colander to remove all sand and grit, spread in a pan and dry in cool oven; when dry add the other ingredients, sugar, spices and salt; mix well together, pack in a stone jar, pour over all the wine and brandy, cover airtight and keep in a dark, cool place. When ready to use take out quantity needed and thin with sweet cider.

Pie Crust—One and one-half cupfuls flour, two tablespoons lard, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth cupful ice cold water, mix flour and lard with knife, add water gradually, avoid wet streaks; flour the board, take half the mixture, form into a ball on board, flour rolling pin and roll paste thin, always from you; line pie dish with this, roll out the rest, make a few gashes to allow steam to escape, fill pie plate with mince meat and then wet the edge of lower crust with water, using fingers; place upper crust on, pinch the two crusts well together; wetting the crusts usually keeps them from parting and thereby keeps the juice in; bake in a good oven from twenty to thirty minutes.

MRS. C. CHRISTENSEN.
No. 36 Grove street, Salem, Mass.

Take four pounds of beef, lower part of the round, boil till tender, cool, and chop fine; should yield about ten cups; one peck of apples, chopped, making twenty cups; one quart sweet cider if liked, water meat was cooked in, three pounds raisins, two pounds currants, grated rind and juice of two lemons, four cups granulated sugar, cup molasses, two tablespoonfuls salt, four teaspoonfuls cinnamon, one teaspoonful cloves, two nutmegs (grated), half pound of candied orange peel (chopped). Cook two hours, then add two cups of brandy, if preferred. This is enough to fill eight quart jars.

Pastry for Pie—One heaping cup of pastry flour, one saltspoonful baking powder, one saltspoonful of salt, and from one third to one-half of a cup of butter and lard mixed. Mix baking powder and salt with flour, then rub in the lard. Mix quite stiff with very cold water. Roll out, put butter on the paste in small pieces; sprinkle with flour. Fold over, roll out again; roll up like a jelly roll. Divide in two parts, and roll out to fit the plate.

GIRLS, POP ? FOR $25 PRIZE

It's up to you,
Fond maiden, dear.
Then through the air,
So loud and clear,
An echo came
Which plainly said,
'Tis leap year now,
Your time to wed,
It's up to you.

Thus read one stanza of a little poem submitted by Mrs. Charles O. Timson of No. 9 Lynn Shore Drive. Don't you see, girls, it is really up to you. It is not necessary that you should give a love powder to your bashful suitor. Certainly not. This is LEAP YEAR. Take advantage of it and the AMERICAN will give a cash prize of $25 to the first couple engaged or married this year. Ah, but there is one condition. The girl must acknowledge that she took advantage of the opportunity offered by the year.

Twenty-five greenbacks comes in rather handy, when you are to be married. Think of the beautiful trousseau you could buy with it. Think of the many ways in which it could be used. Why do you hesitate? Propose right away and then notify the Leap Year Editor. Send in your confession immediately and remember the first to reach our hands wins the prize.

Girls, you would be surprised if you knew how much some fellows desire to support you for the rest of your life. Indeed you would.

But there is one drawback. These boys have not the nerve to propose. All you need is a little nerve and you will propose to them. It is very easy after you get started. Assume an affectionate attitude towards the bashful Romeo and then ask him whether or not he intends to be calling on you for the remainder of his life. Then it's all over.

This prize goes to the first engaged or married couple of this year who will come forward and declare that their engagement or marriage is the result of a Leap Year proposal made by the girl in the case. In order to get the prize the couple must furnish names and addresses and photographs and satisfy the Leap Year Editor that it is a bona-fide Leap Year proposal.

Now, Girls, the rest is up to YOU.

Mrs. Timson's other stanzas are as follows:

It's up to you,
We hear it said,
To follow on,
By others led,
Or captain be,
Amidst life's fray,
To lead the van
On earth's highway.
It's up to you.

"It's up to you,"
A dear wife purred
When by large bills
Her spouse was stirred.
"I purchased these,
One bargain day.
Now if you're smart
You'll promptly pay,
It's up to you."

It's up to you,
This bright New Year
While Joy and Mirth,
Close friends, are here.
Who, welcomed, will
Their blossoms sweet;
We're close to guard
Your wayward feet.
It's up to you!

So Tired of Tired Feet! Use TIZ

Gets the "Tired" Out in a Few Minutes. Makes Your Feet Sore-Proof.

"O Judge! It's awful how tired feet make you feel tired all over—so dead tired. Then, when you've a corn besides, and a bunion, and a few blisters, and your feet are terribly swollen, you don't care if you've got a million dollars—you're tired, that's all. A million dollars can't help you, any more than 25 cents will."

A quarter buys a box of TIZ,—a wonder for tired, sore, tender, chafed, blistered, swollen, sweaty, smelly feet, corns, callouses and bunions, chilblains and frostbite. The moment you use it, you give a sigh of relief, and then you smile. There's nothing as good as TIZ, so don't accept any attempted imitation. TIZ draws out all the poisonous exudations that make foot troubles.

FOLKS PAST FIFTY MUST USE CASCARETS

What Glasses Are to Weak Eyes, Cascarets Are to Weak Bowels—A 10-Cent Box Will Truly Amaze You.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

MARY GARDEN KISSES SEVEN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—It is the Mary Garden kiss now. She invented it by kissing seven young men in public.

Mary declined to say whether or not it was the first time she ever kissed a portion of the public, but the pleased recipients admitted it was the first time they were ever kissed by a grand opera star.

Miss Garden was clad in masculine attire, too. It happened at the performance of Cendrillino at the Auditorium Theatre for the benefit of the Chicago home for boys last night.

So there! The secret is out. The young men Mary kissed were only small boys—mere innocents at the game. It was during the intermission that Miss Garden assumed the role of kisser, and there was a rush of sundry urchins for their share of the "Goodies."

Here is a description of the Mary Garden kiss in slightly modified language, as given by "Tough" Darpun, a member of the boys' home, who was the first to sample it:

"It lasts a long time, and, believe me, it transports you into a regular paradise and makes the world seem sort of different. She doesn't make much noise about it, and seems to cover your entire mouth with her lips. She looks squarely into your eyes, and, believe me, she is some kisser."

Here is what the other boys that Mary kissed had to say about it:

"Billy" Denby: "That Olga Nethersole kiss isn't in it. Miss Mary Garden is the champion kisser of the world."

"Sunny" Lindsay: "As a kisser she's got all the other skirts backed off the boards."

"Skinny" Reifert: "Say, man, I don't remember nothing much about my mother, but if her kisses were any sweeter than the fine singer's I suppose she is the favorite of all the angels."

"Duke" Laing, "Dutch" Frank and "Fatty" Maxwell refused to discuss Miss Garden's kisses except to say that she was just fine and too nice for them to be talking about for publication.

BACON RESIGNS TO AID HARVARD

Robert Bacon, Harvard 1880, United States Ambassador to France has resigned that post to accept a position among the President and Fellows of Harvard College, otherwise known as the Harvard Corporation. Mr. Bacon will replace Judge Francis Cabot Lowell, Harvard '76, who recently died.

The selection of Ambassador Bacon for this position was made some time ago by the Harvard Corporation, which is a self-perpetuating body, and the nomination was received at the meeting of the board of overseers of Harvard College, the concurrence of which is necessary as a matter of form.

The action of the board of overseers in this matter was postponed until Wednesday of next week, when a special meeting of the board has been called for this purpose. Since, however, the board has never been known to veto any selection made by the Harvard Corporation, the nomination of Ambassador Bacon is equivalent to his formal appointment.

Will Come to Boston.

Ambassador Bacon will move his family from Paris, where they are now occupying the American embassy, to Boston, the city of his birth and early life, in which he has not made his home for nearly twenty years.

Mr. Bacon comes of sturdy New England stock, and was born in this city in 1860, the son of Robert Bacon, a well-known Boston merchant with large interests in the East India trade. His ancestors were the Colonial settlers of Salem and Newburyport, and for many generations the Bacons and Kidders, of which family his mother was a member, have been prominent in the life of New England.

Mr. Bacon prepared for Harvard at Groton School, entering college in the Fall of 1876. He was a classmate and intimate friend of Theodore Roosevelt and one of the best oarsmen Harvard ever had. He was captain of the Harvard crew in the Spring of 1880 and captain of the Harvard football team in 1879, being one of the best all-around athletes in his class.

"Bob" Bacon, as he was known in college, was extremely popular and took a prominent part in all the affairs of his class, of which he was chosen first marshal.

Enters Business Career.

After graduating from college at the early age of twenty Mr. Bacon spent one year in travel, and upon his return entered the employ of Lee, Higginson & Co. He remained there only two years, but in this period his financial abilities demonstrated themselves so conspicuously that he received an offer of a partnership in the firm of E. Rollins Morse & Brother. This same year he married Miss Martha W. Cowdin of New York.

The firm of which Mr. Bacon was a member was the Boston representative of the interests of J. Pierpont Morgan, and the appreciation which that financier felt for young Bacon's abilities was significantly displayed in an offer of partnership in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., which was made him in 1896. It was accepted and in that year Mr. Bacon and his family moved to New York.

From the beginning of his New York career Mr. Bacon displayed strong and effective qualities and his place in the firm was second only to that of J. Pierpont Morgan himself, while in the absence of his superior Mr. Bacon was placed in complete control.

In May, 1902, during the absence in Europe of his chief, Mr. Bacon was called upon to protect the Morgan control of the Northern Pacific, a fight in which he won a technical victory.

Resigns From J. P. Morgan & Co.

Soon after this Mr. Bacon had the opportunity to become Assistant Secretary of State. His acceptance of this post was considered at the time to signalize the entrance into public service of a new type of man from that which had been known before. Hitherto it had been no easy task to get men of real ability and importance to accept positions involving much hard work and little personal glory.

Mr. Bacon became Assistant Secretary of State in October, 1905. He succeeded Elihu Root as Secretary of State in January, 1909. This honor was conferred upon him because he had, by three years of the most excellent service in that department, proved himself worthy of it.

MURDER INDICTMENT IS SERVED ON KEYS

PITTSFIELD, Jan. 11.—Lewis Keys was served in his cell in the county jail to-day with an indictment charging him with the murder in the first degree of Ernest Hays in the town of Washington on November 4. The indictment had been found by the Berkshire Grand Jury in session here this week. The government charges that Keys shot Hays, who was a fellow workman on the dam the city of Pittsfield is building at Washington Mountain, during a dispute over a card game. P. J. Moore will be senior counsel for the defendant.

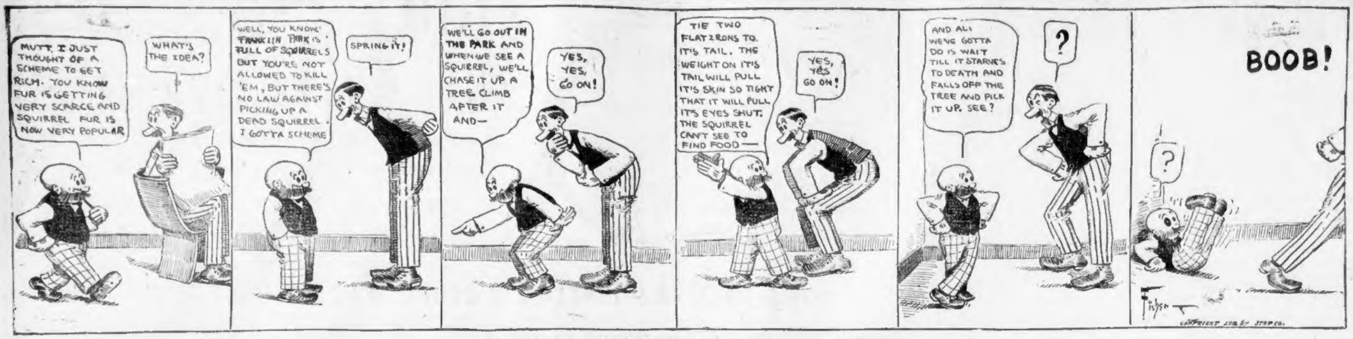
By "Bud" Fisher.



MUTT, I JUST THOUGHT OF A SCHEME TO GET RICH. YOU KNOW FUR IS GETTING VERY SCARCE AND SQUIRREL FUR IS NOW VERY POPULAR
WHAT'S THE IDEA?
WELL, YOU KNOW FRANKLIN PARK IS FULL OF SQUIRRELS BUT YOU'RE NOT ALLOWED TO KILL 'EM, BUT THERE'S NO LAW AGAINST PICKING UP A DEAD SQUIRREL. I GOTTA SCHEME
SPRING IT!
WE'LL GO OUT IN THE PARK AND WHEN WE SEE A SQUIRREL, WE'LL CHASE IT UP A TREE CLIMB AFTER IT AND—

BOILED DINNER MAY COST MORE

Because a shortage in the crops has raised the price of potatoes the proprietors of many Boston restaurants have reduced the size of the orders correspondingly.

The shortage of potatoes, which also threatens to boost the price of the New England boiled dinner, is due to the failure of the crops in Maine, Michigan, New York and other big potato raising States, and has forced the producers in this country to import potatoes on a wholesale scale from Europe. For the past month nearly every steamer arriving from England at this port or New York, has brought in from 3,000 to 5,000 bags of potatoes, grown in Ireland, Scotland or France.

The United States has long been the leading potato producing nation and it is unusual to be forced to import the vegetables on a large scale.

Brockton Rivals Winsted With 2 Nature Stories

BROCKTON, Jan. 11.—The changeable New England weather is thought to have added another to its long list of victims when "Alexander the Great," the prize Orpington rooster owned by Clarence Reed of Melrose avenue, this city, committed suicide by hanging itself on a wire fence. The owner of the bird saw it dancing about the yard in an effort to keep warm, but did not think it had suicidal intentions. The proud victor of many a battle died from strangulation, and Reed, as medical examiner, says it was suicide.

Howard R. Thompson, a letter carrier in the north end of the city, says he captured a butterfly on Field street yesterday. Thompson says the butterfly was hovering close to the snow and seemed to be suffering from the cold. He had no difficulty in catching it, he says, and plans to preserve it. At the time of the capture the mercury was hovering around the zero mark.

FITZGERALD TALKS TO HARVARD MEN

Mayor Fitzgerald spoke to 100 Harvard students in the rooms of the Harvard Catholic Club on the development of Boston, it being his first appearance before a Harvard audience. The Mayor said that if a small proportion of the capital supplied by Boston financiers for industries in the West and South were turned to the building of industries in and about Boston this city would become one of the greatest industrial centres in the world.

COLD STORAGE A PRICE STEADIER

Recommendations that warehouses must be licensed; that goods put in cold storage must be marked with the date of entry; that no goods shall be left in storage more than one year; that cold storage goods must be sold as such, and that goods once withdrawn from cold storage must not be returned to storage—are made in the report of the commission on cold storage, filed with the clerk of the House. This commission is composed of Arthur L. Nason, chairman; F. Spencer Baldwin, secretary; George F. Mead, Francis Batchelder and Davis W. Murray. The report, which will make a volume of several hundred pages, is unanimous.

But two members of the commission, Messrs. Mead and Batchelder, dissent on a provision of the bill requiring goods to be marked with the date of withdrawal from storage, as well as the date of receipt.

The commission does not regard cold storage as a factor in the increase of the cost of living. On the contrary it claims cold storage has made prices lower and steadier.

The report shows also that instead of being detrimental to health, as has been charged, cold storage has on the whole "exhibited itself as an agency for the conservation of the vital resources of the population by enlarging and diversifying the food supply."

WANT POLICEMEN WHO DRINK BARRED

BROCKTON, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Lettie Kingsley Barden, a prominent society woman, in behalf of the Brockton W. C. T. U., has asked the Board of Aldermen why men are allowed to remain on the police force "when they are known to the people of the city as men who use liquor."

On closing our books for 1911 we desire to thank the people of New England for their liberal patronage during the past year, and take great pleasure in wishing all a happy and prosperous New Year. Our business is rapidly increasing, which demonstrates without any argument that our method of dealing in groceries only, handling high grade goods and selling at small profits, is appreciated. MYSTERY WOMAN DYING UNKNOWN

DO YOU KNOW THIS WOMAN?

Well dressed. About thirty-five years old; five feet in height; weighs 140 pounds. Medium complexion, dark hair, brown eyes; wore a black shirtwaist and a caracul coat, black picture hat trimmed with black and white feathers. On her left hand she wore two gold rings, one a plain band ring and the other set with a blue stone.—Description of woman who is dying at City Hospital.

The police and City Hospital authorities to-day bent every effort toward learning, if possible, the identity of the woman of mystery who is dying at the hospital from the effects of injuries she received in some manner early Tuesday morning.

The woman was picked up by Patrolman Charles Miller in an Eliot street doorway and removed to the hospital. She has never regained consciousness and her name is still on the dangerous list.

So far every attempt the police and hospital officials have been making to clear up the mystery surrounding the woman has failed. The last hope of the police is that some person may read of the baffling case in the newspapers and perhaps discover in the unidentified woman a relation or an acquaintance.

Three young men were placed under arrest by the police in connection with the finding of the woman's unconscious body.

MRS. SUYDAM NOBLE'S BRIDE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Louise Lawrence White, who eloped from the home of her millionaire husband, Walter Lispenard Suydam, Jr., at Blue Point, L. I., on September 5 last, was married in Jersey City last evening to Frederick W. Noble, the young man who accompanied her on that romantic flight. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Edward A. Ransom, Jr., at his home, No. 42 Astor place. It was very quiet, the only persons present being Reginald Schenck, who is attorney for the bride's mother; Mrs. John J. White of No. 1 Lexington avenue, and a young man friend of Mr. Noble.

"I am going to be very happy, I think," said Mrs. Noble afterward. "I have had a very uncomfortable time of it since last September with crank letters and stage offers and the constant spying of amateur detectives and interviewers. Now it is all over and I hope I may be allowed to live in peace."

Young Mr. Noble echoed the sentiment with sincere heartiness. He and Mrs. Noble returned to New York immediately after the ceremony and had a quiet wedding supper at a restaurant. They will make their home at No. 82 West Twelfth street where Mrs. White has been dwelling since she left Blue Point.

The young couple are planning a unique honeymoon. The propose purchasing an automobile (just for two) and making a trip around the edges of the United States from here to Florida, across to California, up to Washington, over to Maine and down again. This they think will occupy the greater part of a year.

The second wedding of Louise Lawrence White was in striking contrast to her first. That on July 11, 1903, was performed at The Church of the Heavenly Rest in the presence of most of New York's society representatives.

She was then only seventeen years old, and Mr. Suydam was also a minor. It was called "The Boy and Girl Marriage." Last night's affair was utterly lacking in pomp. The party of four entered Justice Ransom's home, having with them the final decree of divorce, signed by Justice Putnam at River Head, L. I., and a New Jersey license. After Attorney Schenck scrutinized these on behalf of the bride's family, Justice Ransom asked the few questions demanded by the civil code and then pronounced the young people man and wife. There were congratulations all around and the return to New York.

JUDGE GRANT'S SON STUDIES AVIATION

Patrick Grant, Harvard athlete, son of Judge Robert Grant of the Probate Court for Suffolk County, and famous as the All-America football centre for 1908, is going in for aviation. He is at Palm Beach. Before leaving Boston, he arranged with Phillips Page of Brookline, the Burgess flyer, who was in Harvard with him, to take a course of instruction at the beach the latter part of this month. Mr. Burgess has established a hangar at the beach and is preparing to send Page there as soon as it is finished.

BEQUESTS IN WILL IN MEMORY OF DOGS

In memory of two dogs, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is bequeathed $1,000 by George Wales Boren, a wealthy Bostonian who died some time ago, whose will has been filed in the New York Probate Court. The will leaves $500 to the society in memory of his sister Grace's dog, "Scotty," and $500 in memory of Mrs. William Benson's dog, "Sandy."

RE-ELECTED HEAD OF INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Mrs. Eleanor S. Parker was re-elected President of the Industrial School for Girls in Dorchester at the annual meeting held at No. 365 Marlboro street yesterday. She presided at the meeting, at which Miss Mary G. Stone, the secretary, reported that twenty-nine girls are in the care of the school.

WHITING'S DUAL LIFE RECALLED

The death at Pittsfield of William H. Whiting, once prominently identified with State politics as a lobbyist and as messenger of the State Senate, recalls the story of his dual life which was brought to light fourteen years ago.

Whiting was at that time said to have three wives, and to be supporting three different homes at the same time. He is said to have left a large estate, and when his will is filed it is expected there will be a contest by his several heirs, each of whom lay claim to a share.

While married to one woman and the father of three children in Pittsfield, Whiting was said to have married two others and maintained two homes in Somerville. He succeeded in concealing his double life for fifteen years. Since the exposure in 1897 he has been living with his legal wife at No. 51 Brown street, Pittsfield.

The exposure of Whiting came about through his friendship with a Dalton woman. Her husband, learning of it, forced her to make a signed statement, in which she mentioned other women.

When her husband's attorney began to look up Whiting's record, he found he was married to a woman who had been Miss Nellie Porter, and was living in West Somerville. They had two children. Continuing the investigation, he learned that Whiting was married to still another woman—Miss Ellen Douglas, who had also borne him a child.

HOW DE SAULLES WON RICH BRIDE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—"Until I went to Chile all it meant to me was a long pink strip on a map in my geography. Now it means the world and all there is in it."

The above statement was made by John L. De Saulles, former Yale football hero, class of 1901, and member of one of the oldest Knickerbocker families. And he has good reason to think "that pink strip" is the rosiest quarter of the globe, for he has captured the most beautiful as well as the richest daughter of the Andes—the Senorita Blanca Errazuriz-Vergara, to whom he was married in Paris on the fourteenth of last month.

Just a Lovely Romance.

Mr. and Mrs. De Saulles are spending their honeymoon in New York and are receiving the relatives of Mr. De Saulles at their apartments in the Plaza.

The marriage was the result of a delightful romance begun over a year ago in Chili, where Mr. De Saulles had gone in a business capacity. He had letters to a number of the most prominent families, among whom was the Senora Blanca Errazuriz-Vergara, mother of the girl to whom he is now married and the richest woman in the whole of Chili. At their palatial home he met the young daughter, only sixteen, and just home from an English finishing school.

"I just made up my mind that she was the lovliest girl in the world and I wanted her as my wife," said Mr. De Saulles. "It was no easy task, either, for she had suitors galore, and even then she hadn't made her bow in society."

He found that the Senorita could ride so much better than he—and Mr. De Saulles felt that he could ride with the best of them in Central Park, N. Y., and in the Row in London—that he was obliged to ride behind. "She rides better than any one I have ever seen—Belle Beach isn't a marker to her," added the enthusiastic young Benedict.

Bride Is Very Clever.

"She could play a better game at billiards than I, and as for the piano—well, her maestro in Paris told me that she was his most brilliant pupil and would have a great career if she chose it. And she speaks five languages fluently. So to gain her hand in marriage, you see, was a task for a hero.

"The Senorita and her mother set sail in November for Paris on a shopping trip. I stood it as long as I could and then I took the first steamer after them for Paris. Her mother, who is adorable, liked me and finally she consented to our marriage. It was performed in the English Chapel on the Avenue Hoche."

¶ WANT TO BE BEAUTIFUL? SPEND A DAY IN BED OCCASIONALLY! This isn't our advice. WE are not beautiful. It is the advice of Mme. Lina Cavalieri. Mme. Cavalieri IS beautiful. She says every woman ought to spend a day in bed once every week or at least once in ten days. Get next Sunday's AMERICAN and Cavalieri will tell you all about it.

GARDNER TILTS WITH CARNEGIE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Andrew Carnegie apparently enjoys reciting the details of his absorbing life history to the Stanley Steel Investigating Committee, and during his testimony to-day his face was wreathed in smiles. Many times he would swing around in his chair and talk directly to the large crowd which endeavored to hear him.

Mr. Carnegie has been unfailingly punctual at every session he has attended, and he preceded the members of the committee by at least ten minutes to-day and took the stand at 10:37 o'clock.

Representative Beall, of Texas, began the cross-examination. In response to questions, Mr. Carnegie declared there had been continuous progress in the steel industry from 1860 to 1900.

"Has there been the same degree of progress from 1900 to the present time?"

"I have no figures, but I believe there have been no such important advances during the last decade as were found in the preceding decade, when the Bessemer process and the open hearth furnace were discovered."

"Take the time since the formation of the Steel Company. Have there been any marked developments since then?"

"I do not feel qualified to answer that, yet I think there has been some progress."

"Isn't it true that corporations retard development?"

"Ah, there I can speak my mind. I don't believe that corporations can manage a business like partners. When we were partners I felt that we could run around any corporation."

"Then I judge that, in your opinion, if instead of one dominating corporation three or four companies progress would be greater?"

"I feel that a corporation is not in it with partners managing their own business."

LAST TRIBUTE TO MGR. BYRNE

Three Bishops, six Monsignori, no fewer than 250 priests and a congregation of laiety which filled the church of St. Cecilia in every part, attended the final requiem mass chanted this morning over the remains of the late Monsignor Byrne, formerly vicar-general of the archdiocese of Boston.

The services began at 10 o'clock. The officiating clergy were: Rev. Richard Nagle of Malden, celebrant; Rev. John J. McGarry, deacon; Rev. David D. Ryan, sub-deacon; Rev. James A. Supple, D. D., master of ceremonies.

Seated in the sanctuary were the following prelates: Right Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., bishop coadjutor of Boston; Right Rev. Matthew Harkins, D. D., bishop of Providence; Right Rev. Louis S. Walsh, D. D., bishop of Portland; Right Rev. Monsignor Teeling of Lynn, Right Rev. Monsignor Doran of Providence, Right Rev. Monsignor McQuaid of St. James's Church, Right Rev. Monsignor Patterson of South Boston, Right Rev. Monsignor Millerick of St. Joseph's, West End; Right Rev. Monsignor O'Farrell of St. Francis de Sales, Roxbury.

Every parish in the archdiocese was represented by the clergy, who occupied the pews on either side of the centre aisle. The rest of the church was filled by the mourning parishioners of St. Cecilia's parish, over which the deceased prelate was rector.

The funeral sermon was preached by Bishop Anderson, who paid an eloquent tribute to the departed priest.

Bishop Anderson's Eulogy.

Bishop Anderson spoke as follows:

"We have assembled here this morning to pay the last sad rites of the church over the body of our departed friend, Monsignor Byrne. In the absence of His Eminence, I think it only proper as his representative to express in his name and that of the archdiocese a few words of tribute. I deem it especially befitting as an old friend and intimate acquaintance of the deceased, to pay this tribute of reverence and esteem on account of the many years I was associated with him as his assistant at St. Joseph's Church and here at St. Cecilia's.

"The life of Monsignor Byrne is well known to all of us. He had faithfully served as a priest of this diocese for forty-seven years and during that long period of years he had held various positions of honor and trust, namely as chancellor of the diocese, as pastor of St. Mary's, Charlestown, of St. Joseph's, West End, and of this church—St. Cecilia's—and as vicar-general to the former archbishop, which office he held for over twenty-nine years. He was honored by Georgetown University with the degree of doctor of divinity because of his scholarly attainments and gifts of mind and raised to the dignity of prothonotary apostolic by Pope Leo XIII, because of well merited service and ability.

"Besides his faithful service to the diocese, he had endeared himself to the alumni and friends of his alma mater, Mount St. Mary's, Emmittsburg, Maryland, where he taught as a young man previous to his ordination and where for a few years he was president and rendered during that particular period most valuable service in rescuing the college from certain financial difficulties in which he found the institution at that time of his appointment there as president. He was a man of deep erudition, with splendid gifts of mind and intellect, and a thorough student, whose life, had it been spent in teaching, would have been also a most successful and glorious career, as he greatly loved the office of professor and regarded it as a sacred calling.

"But he chose to consecrate the best of his talents and gifts to the church, and devote his life's work to the service of God as a priest. Here in this diocese, where he labored so earnestly and faithfully, his ability and talents were recognized and he was honored by the late archbishop with the highest position of trust in the diocese.

His Sterling Qualities.

"Living with him for some years I was thus enabled to know him most intimately and I was always deeply impressed with his culture of mind and his many splendid traits of character. He had the noble traits of a great man and the sterling qualities of a true priest of God seeking always to do what in his power and his judgment was for the best interest of the work in which he was engaged whether as pastor for the good of his flock or as vicar-general for the welfare of the diocese.

"He was of a kindly nature, considerate and just, with simple habits of living and with little or no consideration for his own personal comfort and ease. He was a man of strong character with indomitable will power, which enabled him to face heroically any situation, to look philosophically upon the problems and difficulties which beset human life and to bear patiently and with a certain stoic indifference the trials and troubles of life's struggle.

"This was in a certain sense his philosophy of life, which, with his faith, permitted him to enjoy always a calm reserve of manner and a perfect peace of mind.

"During all the years that I was associated with him, I never knew him to omit a single duty and even when at times he was greatly suffering from physical indisposition. His stoic power of endurance and his indomitable will power would force him to be up and about, never yielding a moment to any sickness, always ready to celebrate his morning mass and never uttering a word of complaint even when I know that he was experiencing pain and discomfort from his temporary sickness. Naturally, however, he possessed a strong physique and a robust constitution which enabled him to live these seventy-eight years with only occasional periods of sickness.

"It was only during the last three years that his health gradually gave way—and then it was his wonderful grit and superhuman will power that helped him to fight so long his growing weakness and decline. To those who did not know him well he seemed rather reserved, retiring and somewhat distant in manner, which evidently was due to habits acquired as a professor in dealing with students and to his studious nature, but to those who knew him intimately he was most open, unreserved, exceedingly affable and the most interesting and entertaining person in conversation one could possibly meet.

Duties as Vicar-General.

"On account of his official duties as Vicar General he was not in a position as pastors generally are to become intimately and well known to the members of his flock. The duties of this office are such as to keep one so constantly employed in assisting the Archbishop in the affairs and cares of the diocese, that little or no time is left for that intimate knowledge and personal acquaintance with the various members of the parish.

"While therefore on account of his office he may not have the opportunity of winning the warmth of affection and love that goes out to the faithful pastor from the hearts of his people, this, however, I am certain that he won above all their admiration, their respect and esteem by reason of his upright character, his good life, his faithfulness to duty and his true devotion as a priest of God.

"The highest tribute that I can pay him at this moment is that as Vicar General he was loyal and true to his Archbishop and superior, faithful in his duty of office and seeking at all times to give the best of his ability, his talents and his life's service for the welfare of God's church and the good of the diocese. What higher tribute, what better tribute could I, as a friend and as an official of the diocese holding the same position, pay him at this last, sad moment. This is what I know His Eminence would likewise express on this occasion, if he were here.

His life has been well spent, nobly lived and generously given in service to God as a true and devoted priest, a faithful official, and his name and memory will always be held in grateful respect by this diocese.

"Death has always its solemn lesson, but the death of a priest, especially one who has held so prominent a position in the church as our lamented friend, brings forcibly to us all, priests and people here present, the lesson that death is no respecter of persons, that the same end awaits each one of us. God grant us, then, the grace to face death with the same spirit of preparation and Christian faith, with the same trust and confidence in God's love and mercy as he did."

After the mass the remains were conveyed to the Catholic cemetery in Brookline, where at the grave the "Benedictus" was chanted by a choir of priests.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

H. N. R.: To whiten and beautify the complexion you will find nothing better than a simple, inexpensive lotion made by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½-pint witch hazel (or hot water) then adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This lotion will freshen up and improve any complexion without giving that artificial, powdered look. It does not clog the skin pores like powder and lasts much better. It gives to the skin a smooth, velvety tone and takes away that shiny, sallow look. For treating freckles and skin discolorations generally, spurmax lotion is very fine.

D. L.: To quickly get rid of that sallow, pimply look on your face, you should take a good system tonic to remove the impurities from your blood which come from lack of exercise and eating too much solid food in the winter. A good, old-fashioned tonic can be made by dissolving an ounce of kardene in ½-pint alcohol, then adding ½-cup sugar and hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before meals and you will be surprised how quickly the look of perfect health will come into your face and your energy and ambition be restored.

Nadie: To strengthen your weak eyes and rid them of that dull, overworked look, put in each eye daily two or three drops of a fine, strengthening tonic, made by dissolving an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. This eye tonic is very soothing and strengthening, and will make your eyes strong, clear and sparkling. I find it unequalled as a tonic for treating weak, inflamed, expressionless eyes.

Reader: There is one remedy above all others that I take pleasure in recommending for fat reduction. It is harmless and so very effective in regaining a shapely figure. Just dissolve 4 ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints hot water and take a tablespoonful before meals. This simple remedy will remove your excess fat rapidly without dieting and strenuous exercising, and seems to produce best results in the winter months. Your skin will be firm and free from any flabbiness.

Mrs. T. R.: You will not catch cold from shampooing if you use for your shampoo a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, rinsing the hair thoroughly. You should never use soap shampoos, as the alkali dulls and deadens the hair, causing it to become brittle, streaky and split at the ends. Canthrox produces an indescribable softness and fluffiness that one gets only from a perfect shampoo. It relieves irritation and removes dandruff thoroughly. The hair will be very lustrous and you will have no trouble keeping the short hairs in place.

Mrs. R. C.: Nothing is worse than stale or greasy beauty creams. Always use fresh-made, greaseless complexion creams and your skin will not be shiny or hair grow on it. By mixing into ½-pint cold water, 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine and one ounce almozoin, you have a dependable cream-jelly for cleaning, softening and beautifying the skin. This is excellent for chapped face and hands and keeps the complexion in perfect condition. Use it morning and night and you will soon have a charmingly smooth, refined complexion.

Ruby R.: Do not despair. You can easily save your hair, but not by using so-called hair tonics that have lost their strength. Get at your druggist's an ounce of quinzoin and ½-pint alcohol; mix these with ½-pint cold water. Apply this tonic to the scalp about twice a week and you will be amazed to see how quickly it rids your scalp of dandruff and irritation, and your hair will stop coming out. This tonic makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful. By preparing your own hair tonic as directed you will have the best hair and scalp remedy known to science.

Anxious: It is not necessary to resort to the pain and expense attending the use of the electric needle. With powdered delatone and water mix enough paste to cover the hairy surface. After letting remain on two or three minutes remove, wash the skin, and the hairs will have vanished. This leaves the skin white, firm and hairless, and while druggists charge a dollar for an original one-ounce package, it never fails to do the work.

Jennie: You can make your short, stubby eyelashes grow thick, long and curly if you apply pyroxin to lash roots with thumb and forefinger. For thin, scrawny eyebrows, apply pyroxin with finger tips. No harm follows the use of pyroxin, but care should be taken not to get any where no hair is wanted. Druggists charge a dollar for an original package of pyroxin, but it is worth it.

BILL ABOLISHES PARTY ROLLS

Representative William M. McMorrow of Ward 23 to-day filed the anti-party enrollment bill with the clerk of the House. The bill is one of the most important to be acted upon by this year's Legislature.

Although several bills for the abolition of party enrollment have already been introduced, Mr. McMorrow's is the most elaborate and is the one which will be taken up by the Democratic leaders.

The bill has been approved by Governor Foss, who recommended wiping out party enrollment in his inaugural message; David I. Walsh, who, as the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor last Fall, made the party enrollment question his chief campaign issue; Chairman Minton of the Boston Board of Election Commissioners, an ardent supporter of the proposed reform; Mayor Fitzgerald, Chairman John F. McDonald of the Democratic State Committee, Martin M. Lomasney and other party leaders.

All on One Ballot.

The McMorrow bill abolishes party enrollment as a pre-requisite for signing nomination papers and for voting at primaries. It provides that the names of all candidates shall appear on one ballot and that the only pre-requisite for voting at primaries or signing nomination papers shall be that the voter's name be on the voting list.

Several other important provisions are contained in the bill, as follows:

Abolish ward and town political committees and simply have one man to represent each party in each ward or town.

Have ward and town committees chosen by party representatives mentioned in previous paragraph.

Abolish Delegates.

Abolish election of delegates to State political conventions and allow the ward and town leaders to attend State conventions and invite the public generally.

Voters to be allowed to vote for candidates of one party only at primaries. If a voter marks for candidates of more than one political party, his ballot shall be void.

Signers of nomination papers shall make written statement that they intend to support candidates whose papers they sign.

The provision abolishing the election of ward and town political committees and providing that they shall be chosen by the ward and town leaders, who in turn shall be elected, and the clause doing away with the election of delegates to State conventions are inserted in the bill to make it possible to have a comparatively small ballot, about thirty-two inches in length.

Historic Costumes at Artists' Festival To-night

Accuracy in costume and harmonious coloring have been worked out to the very last detail by the committee of the Copley Society, under whose auspices the unique event is held.

ARTISTS READY FOR FESTIVAL

One of the most notable art events in Boston in some time will be the artists' festival given to-night by the Copley Society. For this unique event Copley Hall has been transformed into all the beauty of the hanging gardens of Queen Semiramis in ancient Babylon. The festival centres around the return of the monarch, Tiglath Pileser II, from the conquest of Syria. The entire Assyrian court will be shown.

The festival will be attended by some of the best known socety people in Boston. All the guests will be in costume. Historical accuracy and harmonious coloring have been worked out to the very last detail, under the direction of the costume committee.

The interior of the hall looked resplendent to-day, all the decorations for the hanging gardens having been completed under the eyes of C. Howard Walker. The stage at one end of the long, low hall has been set aside as the temple of the great god of the pagans and on the stage will stand the colossal idol built by the stage carpenters of the Boston Opera House.

Opening of the Pageant.

The evening's pageant to-night opens with hunters, dancing girls, warriors and husbandmen before the image and making obeisances. Preceded by the master of ceremonies, with trumpeters, Tigiath Pileser makes his triumphal entry about 10 o'clock. About him will be his bodyguard and following will be a group of priestesses in flowing draperies. Members of the Tavern Club will impersonate the priests who follow next in the procession.

At the head of the captives of war will come Miss Dorothy Jordan as a Syrian princess, with two attendants. After the king has taken his place on the throne, the priests will give thanks for his victory and the priestesses will give an oriental dance. Miss Virginia Tanner is to give the dance of the Goddess Ishtar for the delight of the king.

Hurled Into the Flames.

One of the most dramatic features will come when the priests beg for favorable omens from the idol. The sky darkens and it lightens. The priests decide the god is dissatisfied because no living victim has been sacrificed. One of the captives is chosen by lot and the living victim is hurled headlong into the flames. The storm subsides and the priests give thanks.

The pageant continues. The sovereigns of Egypt are brought before the Conqueror, and then the various captive queens. The captive Princess, the role of Miss Dorothy Jordan, pleads to the king for her life and finally wins his favor by her dancing. Slaves pass refreshments, and at midnight the festival comes to a close.

A musical program will follow and the guests who desire may remain and dance.

The committee of the society in charge of the various branches of the elaborate arrangements have been kept busy for weeks. Mrs. Samuel Mixter and Miss Dorothy Forbes are two of the active members of the costume committee.

TAKE MILLIONS OUT OF RUINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Fifty million dollars in gold, silver and securities were taken from the ruins of the Equitable Building to-day under extraordinary police precautions. The money and securities were in the vaults of the Bankers' Trust Company, formerly the Mercantile Trust Company, on the second floor of the Pine street side of the ruined structure.

While this work was being done $36,000,000 in cash and securities were being taken from the American Exchange National Bank vaults, No. 128 Broadway.

Vice-President Strong and Assistant Treasurer Donovan of the Bankers' Trust Company had charge of the first removal of valuables from the Equitable ruins. They were assisted by Inspector Cahalano and Captain Hogan of the Old Slip police station and a detachment of policemen and detectives.

A wooden chute was first extended from Pine street up to the windows of the offices of the trust company. Then Mr. Strong and Mr. Donovan went into the ruins and opened the vaults of the company, the locks having gone through the fire practically unharmed.

The money and securities in tin boxes were sent down the chutes and there received by employes of the company who placed them in a van. When all of the valuables had been taken out, the van proceeded to the quarters of the Bankers' Trust Company at No. 7 Wall street, escorted by a detail of uniformed policemen.

The work of removing valuables from the American Exchange National Bank was accomplished under easier circumstances. This building, directly across the street from the Equitable ruins, had been flooded with water and is encrusted with ice, and is in danger of being wrecked if one of the Equitable walls falls.

QUINN'S POLICY IS SQUARE DEAL

Just service—service to the Commonwealth, service to the county, service to the public, and service to the prisoners.

That's the way Sheriff John Quinn, newly appointed, outlined his policy to-day.

Sheriff Quinn was being greeted by scores of friends as he went about the work of getting the wheels in motion to-day. His law office in Pemberton square was thronged, his office in the lower floor of the court house was besieged by attorneys and friends, and the Sheriff's progress from one office to another, or to the court rooms where he had cases, was hampered by the people who thronged about to shake his hand.

Will Serve Everybody.

The sheriff took it all good naturedly, and seemed to be having the time of his life.

"I haven't any special policy, except to serve everybody the best way I know how," he said, when a reporter blockaded him on his passage through one of the corridors at the Court House.

"What I want to do," he continued, "is to take hold and get things to running as smoothly as they did under my predecessor. Then I may begin to think about making changes. For the present, I'm simply trying to fit my feet into someone else's shoes. The shoes will have to fit themselves to my feet later.

"I want to give every one a square deal. I want to give the Commonwealth and the county and the public the best service I know how. You know that without my telling you, of course, and that's as far as my present plans go.

Reappoints Deputies.

"I have re-appointed all the deputies who served under Sheriff Seavey. For the present, at least, there will be no changes. I'm not planning to discharge even a washerwoman—not for a while, at any rate.

"As to the way I shall run the jail—it's going to be run on the notion that the jail is the public's business and that the public has a right to know what's going on there. There won't be any trouble about geting information within reasonable limits from the jail officials. I think we'll find that my views on that proposition are about the same as a good, sensible newspaper man's are.

"You can say for me that I consider I've been hired by the people, and it's up to me to make good if I'm to hold my job.

"That's my only policy."

Sheriff Fred H. Seavey left an estate valued at $140,000 when he died at his residence at the Charles street jail, January 2, $50,000 of which is in real estate and $90,000 in personal property.

A sister, Mrs. Belle A. Floyd, to-day filed a petition in the Suffolk Probate Registry, in which she asks that she be appointed administratrix.

The petition states that she is the sole heir and next of kin.

BATTLE RAGES IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Religious riots instigated by acts of the Republicans caused a reign of terror and battles throughout the city to-day, in which at least five persons were killed and forty wounded. The rioting resulted in a call for troops and the fighting was finally stopped. Soldiers are now patrolling the city and there is a possibility that martial law will be declared.

The ill feeling that has prevailed for some time between the Catholics and Republicans over rumors that the former were assisting the Royalists in plotting for the return of King Manuel culminated in an attack by a mob of Republicans on the Assentis Chapel. This building was wrecked and the statue of Our Lady of Lourdes destroyed.

Two thousand Catholics rallied to defend the building and the two forces met in battle in the streets. After a half-hour struggle between the combatants, who were well armed, the troops charged them and dispersed the mobs.

It is believed that many were killed and carried away, but only five bodies were found.

$100 CHECK FOR FIRE-FIGHTERS

A check for $100 and a letter of appreciation of the work of the fire department during the destructive Federal street fire that resulted in the death of Watchman Stanley B. Reynolds and entailed a loss of $85,000 was to-day received by Chief Mullen from the L. J. Mutty Company, with offices in the building at No. 91-93 Federal street, in which the fire started.

The check for $100 will be turned over to the Firemen's Relief Fund, which is at the disposal of injured firemen and their families and the families of firemen killed in the performance of their duty. The letter follows:

"We enclose herewith check for $100 as a small token of our appreciation of your success in controlling the fire at No. 93 Federal street. We were under the impression that our place of business would be entirely burned out, and we were very agreeably surprised to find that we have suffered practically no loss.

"Our stock was not misplaced or damaged in any way. Our total loss and expense will practically be less than $200.

"Trusting that you will accept this little token of our appreciation, together with our hearty thanks and kind regards to you and your men, we are,

"(Signed) L. J. MUTTY COMPANY.

AVIATOR NEAR DEATH IN STOUGHTON FALL

E. Percy Miller, son of O. A. Miller, and formerly living in Boston, had a narrow escape from serious injury while flying in a biplane over Glen Echo Lake, Stoughton. A gust of wind took the biplane out of its course and at the same time the wire to the elevator broke. The machine nearly turned turtle and fell twenty feet. Young Miller was cut about the head and the machine was wrecked.

HERDS OF CATTLE FROZEN TO DEATH

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 11.—Thousands of head of dead cattle are strewn along the ranges of New Mexico, and Texas as the result of the freezing weather of the last three weeks. One ranch, near Clovis, New Mexico, reports that its loss alone is more than 1,000 head.

BREAKS THE MOST STUBBORN COLD AND ENDS GRIPPE IN A FEW HOURS

The most severe cold will be broken, and all grippe misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress vanish.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Telephone Rates
(Full Surburban Service)

Unlimited residence telephone service, embracing all Surburban Exchanges, may be had as follows:

One-Party Line . . $45 (Old Rate $54 a Year)
Two-Party Line . . $36 (Old Rate $42 a Year)

This is a desirable service for subscribers whose calls are distributed over a large number of distant surburban exchanges.

A one-party line subscriber has the exclusive use of his own line. A two-party line subscriber shares the line with only one other subscriber, but his line is equipped with divided ringing, so that he hears no bell except his own.

Those whose residence telephone requirements are not satisfactorily met by other kind of service, as, for example, the lower unlimited district rate (embracing any suburban exchange and all contiguous suburban exchanges), or by a measured service (embracing all Metropolitan exchanges within an 8-mile radius, with excess calls at 3 cents each), would do well to consider the above proposition.

If this outline interests you, call the Contract Department, Fort Hill 7600, and give your order. New contracts or changes, that can be completed in time, will have correct call numbers listed in the next Telephone Directory, NOW GOING TO PRESS. A call to Fort Hill 7600 may be made without charge from any telephone or Pay Station in the Metropolitan District.

BILL ABOLISHES PARTY ROLLS

Representative William M. McMorrow of Ward 23 to-day filed the anti-party enrollment bill with the clerk of the House. The bill is one of the most important to be acted upon by this year's Legislature.

Although several bills for the abolition of party enrollment have already been introduced, Mr. McMorrow's is the most elaborate and is the one which will be taken up by the Democratic leaders.

The bill has been approved by Governor Foss, who recommended wiping out party enrollment in his Inaugural message; David I. Walsh, who, as the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor last Fall, made the party enrollment question his chief campaign issue; Chairman Minton of the Boston Board of Election Commissioners, an ardent supporter of the proposed reform; Mayor Fitzgerald, Chairman John F. McDonald of the Democratic State Committee, Martin M. Lomasney and other party leaders.

All on One Ballot.

The McMorrow bill abolishes party enrollment as a pre-requisite for signing nomination papers and for voting at primaries. It provides that the names of all candidates shall appear on one ballot and that the only pre-requisite for voting at primaries or signing nomination papers shall be that the voter's name be on the voting list.

Abolish ward and town political committees and simply have one man to represent each party in each ward or town.

Have ward and town committees chosen by party representatives mentioned in previous paragraph.

Abolish Delegates.

Abolish election of delegates to State political conventions and allow the ward and town leaders to attend State conventions and invite the public generally.

Voters to be allowed to vote for candidates of one party only at primaries. If a voter marks for candidates of more than one political party, his ballot shall be void.

Signers of nomination papers shall make written statement that they intend to support candidates whose papers they sign.

The provision abolishing the election of ward and town political committees and providing that they shall be chosen by the ward and town leaders, who in turn shall be elected, and the clause doing away with the election of delegates to State conventions are inserted in the bill to make it possible to have a comparatively small ballot, about thirty-two inches in length.

QUINN'S POLICY IS SQUARE DEAL

Just service—service to the Commonwealth, service to the county, service to the public, and service to the prisoners.

That's the way Sheriff John Quinn, newly appointed, outlined his policy to-day.

Sheriff Quinn was being greeted by scores of friends as he went about the work of getting the wheels in motion to-day. His law office in Pemberton square was thronged, his office in the lower floor of the court house was besieged by attorneys and friends, and the Sheriff's progress from one office to another, or to the court rooms where he had cases, was hampered by the people who thronged about to shake his hand.

Will Serve Everybody.

The sheriff took it all good naturedly, and seemed to be having the time of his life.

"I haven't any special policy, except to serve everybody the best way I know how," he said, when a reporter blockaded him on his passage through one of the corridors at the Court House.

"What I want to do," he continued, "is to take hold and get things to running as smoothly as they did under my predecessor. Then I may begin to think about making changes. For the present, I'm simply trying to fit my feet into someone else's shoes. The shoes will have to fit themselves to my feet later.

"I want to give every one a square deal. I want to give the Commonwealth and the county and the people the best service I know how. You know that without my telling you, of course, and that's as far as my present plans go.

Reappoints Deputies.

"I have reappointed all the deputies who served under Sheriff Seavey. For the present, at least, there will be no changes. I'm not planning to discharge even a washerwoman—not for a while, in any rate.

"As to the way I shall run the jail, it's going to be run on the notion that the jail is the public's business and that the public has a right to know what's going on there. There won't be any trouble about getting information within reasonable limits from the jail officials. I think we'll find that my views on that proposition are about the same as a good reliable newspaper man's are.

"You can say for me that I consider I've been hired by the people, and it's up to me to make good if I'm to hold my job.

Sheriff Fred H. Seavey left an estate valued at $140,000 when he died at his residence at the Charles street jail, January 2, $50,000 of which is in real estate and $90,000 in personal property.

A sister, Mrs. Belle A. Floyd, today filed a petition in the Suffolk Probate Registry, in which she asks that she be appointed administratrix.

The petition states that she is the sole heir and next of kin.

UNEXPECTED NEW TRIUMPHS OF "VOTES FOR WOMEN."

[illegible] SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

BATTLE RAGES IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Religious riots instigated by acts of the Republicans caused a reign of terror and battles throughout the city today, in which at least five persons were killed and forty wounded. The rioting resulted in a call for troops and the fighting was finally stopped. Soldiers are now patrolling the city and there is a possibility that martial law will be declared.

The ill feeling that has prevailed for some time between the Catholics and Republicans over rumors that the former were assisting the Royalists in plotting for the return of King Manuel culminated in an attack by a mob of Republicans on the Assumption Chapel. This building was wrecked and the statue of the Lady of Lourdes destroyed.

Two thousand Catholics rallied to defend the building and the two parties met in battle in the streets. After a half hour struggle between the combatants, who were well armed, the troops charged them and dispersed the mobs.

It is believed that many were killed and carried away, but only five bodies were found.

HOORAY! HOORAY! THE BACHELOR GIRLS' LEAGUE OF NEWPORT IS DONE BUST. Ten years ago the League had seven members of Newport and every one of them had broken a heart or two. Now Mazie [illegible] is alone [illegible] with her bow and arrow and [illegible] off for "Gyp" [illegible] is wed! Do read about it in the Sunday AMERICAN.

Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker will deliver an address before the members of the Catholic Club Society of Boston next Monday evening in the auditorium of the City Club.

$100 CHECK FOR FIRE-FIGHTERS

A check for $100 was sent in appreciation of the work of the fire department during the [illegible] Federal street fire that resulted in the death of Watchman Stanley E. [illegible] and entailed a loss of $80,000 [illegible] by Chief [illegible] from the [illegible] Company, with offices in the building at No. [illegible] Federal street [illegible].

The check for $100 will be turned over to the Firemen's Relief Fund, which is at the disposal of injured firemen and their families and the families of firemen killed in the performance of their duty. The letter follows:

AVIATOR NEAR DEATH IN STOUGHTON FALL

[illegible] Miller, [illegible] A. Miller and [illegible] living in [illegible], had a narrow escape from serious injury while flying in a biplane over [illegible] Lake, Stoughton. A gust of wind tore the biplane out of his control and at the same time the wire to the elevator broke. The machine was turned turtle and fell twenty feet. Young Miller was cut about the head and the machine was wrecked.

HERDS OF CATTLE FROZEN TO DEATH

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 11.—Thousands of head of dead cattle are strewn along the ranges of New Mexico and Texas as the result of the freezing weather of the last three weeks. One ranch near Clovis, New Mexico, reports that the loss alone is more than 1,000 head.

BREAKS THE MOST STUBBORN COLD AND ENDS GRIPPE IN A FEW HOURS

The most severe cold will be broken, and all grippe misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress vanish.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Telephone Rates

(Full Surburban Service)

Unlimited residence telephone service, embracing all Surburban Exchanges, may be had as follows:

One-Party Line . . $45
Old Rate $54 a Year

Two-Party Line . . $36
Old Rate $42 a Year

This is a desirable service for subscribers whose calls are distributed over a large number of distant surburban exchanges.

A one-party line subscriber has the exclusive use of his own line. A two-party line subscriber shares the line with only one other subscriber, but his line is equipped with divided ringing, so that he hears no bell except his own.

Those whose residence telephone requirements are not satisfactorily met by other kind of service, as, for example, the lower unlimited district rate (embracing any suburban exchange and all contiguous suburban exchanges), or by a measured service (embracing all Metropolitan exchanges within an 8-mile radius, with excess calls at 3 cents each), would do well to consider the above proposition.

If this outline interests you, call the Contract Department, Fort Hill 7600, and give your order. New contracts or changes, that can be completed in time, will have correct call numbers listed in the next Telephone Directory, NOW GOING TO PRESS. A call to Fort Hill 7600 may be made without charge from any telephone or Pay Station in the Metropolitan District.

How to Be Chic—Zina Brozia, Hailed as One of the Loveliest Women on the Grand Opera Stage, Tells

"How I Won My Way to Beauty"

ZINA BROZIA'S ADVICE TO WOMEN

Athletics make girls more like men than women.

A woman, however, must take enough exercise so that she shall be graceful and not fat.

Muscles are an abomination in a woman.

Man delights in doing things for the weak and fascinating woman, and he doesn't like it when he meets a girl as strong as he is.

The male sex is vain with a vanity that is childlike. Man wants to be admired for his strength. When woman goes out and excels him in feats of strength and skill he doesn't like it.

SHUSTER QUITS, UNDER GUARD

TEHERAN, Jan. 11.—Escorted by a troop of Russian Cossacks, W. Morgan Shuster, American ex-treasurer-general of Persia, accompanied by his wife and family, left here to-day for home. Mr. Shuster will return to the United States by way of Constantinople, Paris and London. The trip from Teheran was made by caravan, and all attaches of the party were heavily armed for fear of an attack by Persian brigands.

Mr. Shuster's departure from the Persian capital brought about a striking demonstration of friendship on the part of the populace who idolize the young American. Parties of men and women accompanied Shuster's party to the edge of the city. Some of them carried United States flags. The departure of Shuster to-day brought the final curtain to the ex-treasurer-general's activities in behalf of Persia.

Although he had been in the government less than eight months, he had rehabilitated the government's shattered finances, paying $200,000 debts and leaving more than half a million in the national treasury.

Mr. Shuster came to Persia last Spring. He was deposed by the national council on December 28, following the receipt of an ultimatum form Russia, which was delivered here November 29.

Pianos and Musical Instruments.

CLEARANCE SALE BEFORE STOCK TAKING

This Piano Only $89.

SALES Going on every day. We must reduce our stock before Feb. 1, 1912. Every piano on our great selling floor is a bargain. Lots of them marked below cost. Hardly a day passes but some woman remarks: "How can you sell these excellent pianos for such low prices? It is really wonderful." The reason is we do not have to rely on this end of our business entirely for profits, and then our expenses are small, and we have plenty of money to take advantage of the dealer who is forced to go under from outside pressure. Make it a point to call and see us. You'll be the gainer.

BARGAINS in nearly 200 pianos, new and second hand. We trade DIRECTLY with the public without the intervention of "agents." For the splendid line of new pianos of various makes we offer at $150, $175, $200, $225, $250; payable $10 down and $5 per month; used instruments taken in exchange. Remember, there are factories turning out pianos which they sell to dealers for $70 to $85. We know of some buyers and consumers who try to get from $250 to $350 for these same pianos. Protect yourself against such methods by relying upon an old, established house that GUARANTEES the RIGHT value in all its transactions. We believe in "one price to all" and give the same inducements to the humblest buyer as to the most expert. Every one invited to inspect our offerings which, at the prices marked on tickets, are unequalled in this market. Established 1863. Always under the same management. HENRY F. MILLER & SONS PIANO CO., 395 Boylston st.

HAVE THE FOOD BROUGHT STRAIGHT TO YOUR DINING ROOM ON A RAILROAD TRAIN. And don't say it cannot be done, for it is being done every day in the homes of suburban Paris. M. Henri Rigaud, the electrical engineer, began it. M. Rigaud built the railroad from the kitchen. Then he dismissed a housemaid, reducing his household expenses. He presses a button and poof! in comes the railroad train with things to eat. Read about it and see the pictures in the Sunday AMERICAN.

RIVAL MOTOR SHOWS DRAW

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The motoring interests in this city is now divided between the show in the Grand Central Palace which opened last night and the one in Madison Square Garden which has been in session for the past three days. The latest show is more beautifully staged than that at Madison Square Garden and another element of interest is added to the same by the fact that both pleasure and commercial vehicles are there displayed—there are twenty-seven different makes of commercial motor vehicles, including such prominent ones as Chase Commercial, Dayton, Decatur, Detroit, Eclipse, Federal, Kelly, Lauth, Juergens, Lippard, Stewart, Sanford, Universal and Velie. All but two of these are gas vehicles. The Garden show, however, continues to attract an endless amount of attention as the attendance there has not shown any decrease. This morning at the Alco booth are shown both the six and four-cylinder models and George H. Hudson of Boston takes pride in pointing to the same.

Touring Car Lines Changed.

In the touring cars the lines have been considerably changed and the tonneaus have been made roomier, the seats tipped slightly and the cushions made thicker. Doors have also been widened. A specially new feature is the addition of small electric lamps which are lighted automatically when the doors are opened, thus aiding in entering or alighting from the car at night. In the limousine bodies special ventilation systems have been installed to prevent drafts.

These enclosed bodies are also fitted with marine windows in the back, so that the driver may see what is behind him.

The fourth company in the United States to take up the Knight sleeve valve engine is the Atlas company of Springfield, Mass. This company makes two models equipped with the Knight invention, the only difference between them is that one is 130 inches wheel base, while the other is 140.

The first takes 36 by 4½ tires and the longer car 37 by 5. The engine is a four-cylinder, bore 4½ inches, stroke 5½ inches, rating at 50 horsepower.

Featured by a silent Knight six-cylinder limousine and a dissected motor of the sliding sleeve type, the exhibit of Stoddard-Dayton cars compels attention from many standpoints of motor car excellence.

While the company was the first in America to build a six-cylinder Knight motor, and also the first among high-priced makers to design its cars with the driver's seat on the left and the control levers in the center, it is not because of these radical steps that they attract unusual attention, but rather because they shew a science of metallurgy and a genius of body work combined.

W. H. Stevens Prominent.

W. H. Stevens, Boston distributor for National cars, is a prominent figure at the National Motor Vehicle Company's exhibit at the Madison Square Garden automobile show. The National Company, which has for twelve years concentrated upon the self-propelled vehicle business, is exhibiting what Stevens terms the "star of the show." A roadster toy tonneau, five-passenger and seven-passenger touring cars are shown in both Series S. and Series V models. "With an abundance of refinement and comfort the National car is the focus of attention," says Stevens. "And to its general atmosphere of culture and elegance adds the exactness and pleasing completeness in all details, and the motor devotee finds in the National the criterion of values regardless of price."

The Standard Brush runabouts have not been changed beyond the fact that the upholstery has been improved, with an eye towards the greater comfort of the user of the car. The Liberty Brush, a small edition of the Brush Runabout, has been brought out this year, the only difference in the two cars being the upholstery work and the crank case, which is aluminum on the regular Brush, and cast iron on the Liberty.

Among the 1912 refinements of the Everitt, handled in Boston by J. S. Harrington & Co., may be mentioned valves inclosed in a dust-proof case, with an aluminum cover, held in place with two small hand wheels, push rods and guides of larger diameter and longer, which increase the bearing surface, motor crankshaft larger and stronger throughout, connecting rods longer, increasing the angle of pressure, and the babbitt cast into the big end of the rods instead of die cast. The reservoir is removed from the side of the cylinder casting and placed on the left side of the lower half of the crank case. The oil reservoir is provided with an indicator showing the oil level at all times.

New Reo Car Shown.

Under the name of "Reo the Fifth" the Reo Company is showing a new car with the same size motor as that employed during the past year with four-inch bore and four-and-one-half-inch stroke and a rating of thirty horsepower. The bodies fitted with the new chasis are of the five-passenger touring, baby tonneau and two-passenger roadster types. A four-inch longer wheel-base is put on these cars than was used on the former Reo models, and the left-hand control is also used. The gear-shifter lever has a cane-shaped handle and may be readily removed and placed in the locker. A conspicuous feature of the model is the centre control, the stearing wheel is on the left side, but the gear-shifting lever is in the centre and so designed that the top of the handle moves only three inches in going from one speed to another. Mr. J. M. Luscott is delighted with the results of this show.

At the Premier booth is found one of the best of the enclosed cars mounted on the stock chassis, which retains all of the excellent qualities that made it possible for nine PrPemiers, driven by private owners, to make that famous trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific and likewise to make such excellent showings in the Glidden tour. Messrs. Edes and Johnson of Boston are both here and are doing excellent work. The Premier is the high-class car that it always has been and is attracting no end of attention owing to its well-established record and reputation.

A feature of interest of the Knox exhibit is the addition of a motor of slightly higher strokebore ratio than any which have hitherto been put out by the Knox factory. This new chassis, which is known as the Model R 45, has a bore of five inches and a stroke of five and one-half inches, the motor has four singly cast cylinders, with integrally cast water jackets. The cylinder heads are removable, and the valves are of the flat-seated type, according to the usual Knox practice.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

LEHIGH STILL STOCK LEADER

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Lehigh Valley and New York Central were joint market leaders at the opening of the stock market to-day, each establishing a gain of ⅜. The continuation of strength in Lehigh, which has been moving up steadily through a bull campaign, is giving rise to reports that there will be important developments at the meeting of the directors next week.

Although there was some irregularity discernible at the opening, there was no evidence of weakness, and before the end of the first fifteen minutes pronounced strength had developed in a number of issues.

Western Union was largely purchased, sustaining an advance of ⅜. A small fractional gain was also made in American T. & T. After opening unchanged United States Steel common declined ⅜, but later recovered. Amalgamated Copper was off ⅝. Missouri Pacific and Reading gained ⅛ each.

Union Pacific was off ⅜. While the tie-up of securities in the Equitable fire caused some confusion, it resulted in no depreciation in values.

The Curb was steady.

American Railway shares in London were quiet but firm.

LOSES MEMBERSHIP IN STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—William R. Holligan of the Stock Exchange firm of William R. Holligan & Co., No. 111 Broadway, has been expelled by the exchange for misstatements at the time of his admission to membership in 1902. The firm is an important one and has large Chicago connections.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The advance in Union Pacific was largely based upon reports that the gross and net earnings of the road for last month will show a big increase over those of November. Weather conditions have not been favorable in most of the sections upon which western roads depend for business. Some of the northwestern roads are likely to make a poor showing for earnings in January for that reason.

The unfilled tonnage on United States Steel books is enough to keep the plants running full time for four or five months, but some observers of market conditions think the orders have been obtained at such low prices that there is little profit in the business.

The general opinion on Wall Street, it appears, is that there will be an inactive market until all the securites tied up by the Equitable Building fire are released.

SHUSTER QUITS, UNDER GUARD

TEHERAN, Jan. 11.—Escorted by a troop of Russian Cossacks, W. Morgan Shuster, American ex-treasurer-general of Persia, accompanied by his wife and family, left here to-day for home. Mr. Shuster will return to the United States by way of Constantinople, Paris and London. The trip from Teheran was made by caravan, and all attaches of the party were heavily armed for fear of an attack by Persian brigands.

Mr. Shuster's departure from the Persian capital brought about a striking demonstration of friendship on the part of the populace who idolize the young American. Parties of men and women accompanied Shuster's party to the edge of the city. Some of them carried United States flags. The departure of Shuster to-day brought the final curtain to the ex-treasurer-general's activities in behalf of Persia.

Although he had been in the government less than eight months, he had rehabilitated the government's shattered finances, paying $200,000 debts and leaving more than half a million in the national treasury.

Mr. Shuster came to Persia last Spring. He was deposed by the national council on December 28, following the receipt of an ultimatum form Russia, which was delivered here November 29.

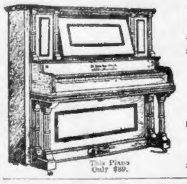
CLEARANCE SALE BEFORE STOCK TAKING



This Piano Only $89.

SALES Going on every day. We must reduce our stock before Feb. 1, 1912. Every piano on our great selling floor is a bargain. Lots of them marked below cost. Hardly a day passes but some woman remarks: "How can you sell these excellent pianos for such low prices? It is really wonderful." The reason is we do not have to rely on this end of our business entirely for profits, and then our expenses are small, and we have plenty of money to take advantage of the dealer who is forced to go under from outside pressure. Make it a point to call and see us. You'll be the gainer.

BARGAINS in nearly 200 pianos, new and second hand. We trade DIRECTLY with the public without the intervention of "canvassers." See the splendid line of new pianos by various makers we offer at $150, $175, $200, $225, $250; payable $10 down and $5 per month; used instruments taken in exchange. Remember, there are factories turning out pianos which they sell to dealers for $70 to $85. We know of some dealers and canvassers who try to get from $250 to $300 for these same pianos. Protect yourself against such methods by relying upon an old, established house that GUARANTEES the RIGHT value in all its transactions. We believe in "one price to all" and give the same inducements to the humblest buyer as to the most expert. Every one invited to inspect our offerings which, at the prices marked, we believe are unequalled in this market. Established 1863. Always under the same management. HENRY F. National Sentiment Demands That the Peace Treaties Be Ratified

From all the evidences at hand, the great majority of the people of the United States are in full sympathy with President Taft and Secretary Knox for the confirmation of the treaties with France and England.

There is every reason why this should be so. Here is the first great step of the decade toward universal peace, and our country leads it in the eye and approbation of the world.

These are treaties with the nearest and two of the very greatest nations about us. These treaties, if ratified, will be followed by similar treaties with other nations and among other nations, and will be the logical and inevitable beginning of a world bond for arbitration and peace among all the great nations of the earth.

It is difficult to understand how any great people could object upon merely technical quibbles to a movement so vast and beneficent; or how public men—Senators—of catholic scope and intelligence could interpose small questions of senatorial custom or privilege between their country and the leadership of the world's peace. The treaties should be confirmed at once.

The objections raised by the Senate committee have been logically and completely answered by the President and the Secretary of State. The apprehension of trouble under these treaties arising from Japanese immigration on the Pacific coast is one; the apprehension that these treaties may have a destroying or debilitating effect upon the Monroe Doctrine is another; and a third is the bugbear that these treaties may reopen the question of the bonds of the Southern States.

The argument makes crystal clear the fact that these treaties are TO DEAL WITH JUSTICIABLE QUESTIONS HEREAFTER ARISING.

The Monroe Doctrine is not a "justiciable question," but one of purely governmental policy which we have followed for nearly a century with the general acquiescence of all European countries.

With respect to the exclusion of immigrants, it is a principle of international law that every country may admit only those whom it chooses. It is a subject of domestic policy in which no foreign country can interfere unless it is covered by a treaty.

With respect to the Southern war and reconstruction bonds which have been repudiated, it is sufficient to say that the pending treaties involve only QUESTIONS HEREAFTER ARISING.

ARE OUR INTERESTS SAFEGUARDED? Most assuredly!

The treaties provide for a joint high commission, to which all questions in dispute are taken before going before the final arbitral court.

The reference even to the joint high commission is deferred for one year—for national passions to cool and diplomacy to get in its work.

This commission holds three representatives of each nation—three Americans and three Englishmen or three Frenchmen, as the case may be. These inquire into the disputed matter and report to their respective governments their conclusions.

THEN IF THE SENATE, CONCURRING WITH THE EXECUTIVE, so determines, it will be submitted for final arbitration to the enlarged Hague Tribunal for definite decision.

The joint high commission is advisory to the permanent Hague Tribunal. IN EVERY INSTANCE THE SENATE'S RIGHT TO DISSENT FROM THE PROCEDURE IS RESPECTED AND PRESERVED.

But let it be fully understood that in every case FIVE OUT OF SIX members of this commission must decide before the verdict is conclusive upon both governments.

How impossible for national or partisan advantage to be taken by any government!

Because TWO OUT OF THREE OF EACH GOVERNMENT'S COMMISSIONERS MUST SIDE WITH THE OTHER NATION'S THREE to make the decision final.

It is impossible to conceive of a fairer and safer tribunal for any nation than this.

The argument for the treaties is complete in law, in logic, in international safety and policy.

The Senate is standing obstructive in the path of progress and peace if its captious technicalities delay or defeat these great and righteous measures.

The public peace sentiment of the people should roll in a volume of appeal and petition to stir the Senate to its duty.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

BLUEJACKETS WANT GOOD OPINION

Editor AMERICAN:

I want to thank the young woman who wrote the AMERICAN commending the sailors of the American navy. Sailors are human like other persons, and it has seemed to me that the public has a wrong idea concerning us, judging us by a few whom they see conducting themselves badly on the streets.

There are 47,730 men in the United States navy, and there are bound to be a few black sheep amongst them.

There are about 800 men on the battleship New Jersey, whose homes are in all parts of the country, and they would all lay down their lives for their country if need be. I wish the public could have a different idea of us. Remember, we must have a navy and we American boys have to make it.

I wish again to thank the girl who praised us in your paper. She has the navy behind her. W. H. L.

THE FAMINE SITUATION IN CHINA

Editor AMERICAN:

One of the leading factors causing the present upheaval in China is in danger of being overlooked while we view the kaleidoscopic changes there from afar. The fact that 500,000 families face death by starvation before May next in the famine regions investigated by our American Red Cross is evidence of the need of a response from Americans, whose ears are not closed to the cry of distress though it come from across the sea.

This time, the fourth within a decade, that wholesale starvation is present in the fertile valley of the Yangtse river, conservation relief works under the supervision of such experts as the American Red Cross Engineer Jamison will constitute a model scheme for the Chinese government to later carry out on the vast scale required to render the alluvial plain of eastern China immune from floods.

The relief work of the China General Famine Relief Committee under F. R. Graves (American Episcopal Mission) extends to the relief of suffering caused by the war, and it is hoped that an adequate response may be had to meet the situation in both its aspects. Money is being forwarded by the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., treasurers of mission boards and banks having dealings with China.

A Home For Every Child

Dr. Stephen S. Wise Makes a Powerful Plea for the Pensioning of Widowed Mothers by the State

DR. STEPHEN S. WISE, the brilliant rabbi of the Free Synagogue of New York, in a powerful plea for the pensioning of widowed mothers by the State, at Huntington Hall, Boston, under the auspices of the Mothers' Club, laid down the following slogan:

"Our program should be—for the children of widowed mothers, their homes; for the parentless, homeless child, some other home. But a home for all children!"

The address of Rabbi Wise was listened to with the closest attention by the members of the club and his points enthusiastically received. Rabbi Wise is well known in Boston, having been here frequently when Rabbi Fleischer was at Temple Israel.

Rabbi Wise is one of the most scholarly and most eloquent speakers of the Jewish faith. He is a leader among the reform element. He originated what is known as the "three in one" service, which consists of the Jews, Unitarians and Universalists alternating in the use of their churches for union services.

Rabbi Wise pointed out that organized charity could not bear the burden of maintaining widowed mothers with their children in their own homes. It is the business of such organizations to prepare the way for legislation that will provide pensions for widowed mothers so that they may keep their children in their own homes.

In the course of his address Rabbi Wise said:

The widowed mother of minor children may do one of three things. She may suffer her children to be taken from her, and placed in an institution, which means that they are denied the high boon of mothering. Or, she may keep the children within her own home, and become a wage earner in a shop, or factory, which again means, in the words of Jane Addams, that she enjoys the right of supporting her children, but is denied the privilege of nurturing and mothering them.

"Yet, again, she may be a worker and wage-earner within her own home, which, however, is to convert the tenement home into a work-shop, and her little ones not infrequently into child-toilers.

The charity organizations, societies, need the widowed mother, in order that they may secure the support and co-operation of quasi-philanthropists, to whom the mother of fatherless children in her misery is supposed to make appeal. But while the charities need the widowed mother, they have not adequately and completely met the needs of the widowed mother. Generally speaking, the charity organizations of the community have not been able to bear the burden of adequate maintainence of the widowed mother with her children in her home.

The business of organized charity is, for one thing, to administer urgent and emergent relief, and to prepare the way for such constructive methods and statesman-like legislation as would make possible the pensioning of widowed mothers.

The death of the father does not in truth break up the home, bearing in mind the conditions of the homes of wage-earners. The home is the mother and the mother is the home. The question, then, is whether a home shall be broken up and mother and children ruthlessly separated because the home lacks the sustaining wage, when, save for such need, the mother is morally and spiritually fit to remain the homekeeper of her children.

I believe that when the State has undertaken to pension the needy-widowed mothers it will do very much more than is done to-day in order to prevent the maiming and slaying of fathers, whether by the so-called extraordinary accidents of industry or by the no less deadly ordinary incidents.

Again, the State may be moved to intervene in order to secure such a wage for the worker as shall not make the widow and orphan penniless because of the death of the wage-earner.

The pensioning of widowed mothers is no longer experimental. Missouri is trying the experiment, as is Cook County, in Illinois, and some counties in the State of California. Why should not the great and progressive Commonwealth of Massachusetts lead in this high enterprise, as it has so often led in the things that have been made for social betterment?

This meeting asks that the Legislature of Massachusetts appoint a commission which shall carefully investigate the problem and then report to the State as to the wisdom of the suggested proposal. As for the danger of paternalism, the State is paternal now. But it is unwisely and unhelpfully paternal.

The question that faces the men and women of Massachusetts is whether mothers shall be punished for their widowhood by being robbed of their children in their homes. Shall we penalize the widowhood of poor mothers by making them childless?

Shall we pension or penalize widowed mothers? Under the present order, the State not only robs mothers of children, but robs children of mothers—perhaps because neither mother nor child is an enfranchised citizen. Our program should be for the children of widowed mothers, their own homes; for the parentless, homeless child, some other home. But a home for all children!

Massachusetts splendidly led the way in placing out children. I would have Massachusetts lead in the new cause of placing in children—in their own homes. Let it not be said of us, said the prophet of Israel in his own time. "To the fatherless they will not do justice, and the cause of the widow doth not come unto them."

He Writes About Pa and a Russian

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WHAT is the matter with yure face? sed Ma to Pa wen he calm from the offis for dinner. & what is that you have in yure arms?

Well, sed Pa, I will tell you, this is a Pershun Rug, & my anser to yure first questun, sed Pa, will require a littel moar time. I got in a fite with a Russhun, Pa sed, & I had a shade oaver him.

Thare seems to be a shade oaver yure eye, too, sed Ma, kind of purple, like a purple twilite. With which hand did the Russhun smite thee? Ma asked Pa.

It was all my way, Pa sed. You see, it was like this. I was walking along the street with this Pershus Rug wich I wanted to give you for a Holiday present, & along calm a big fellow with whiskers. He kind of butted into our crowd, Pa sed, & he seemed vary nice at first, his manners was fine. The boys all took to him & thay eeven let him treet onst out of his turn, sed Pa.

Then, Pa sed, sumthing was sed about Mister Shuster, the fine yung financeer wich has got chased out of Persia rite in the middel [illegible] lot of valuable work, & the man with the whiskers on his face sed, What business has he got thare? Then I toald him, sed Pa, that a man wich is a American citizen has business anyware he wants to go. Then he called me an American pig, sed Pa, & sumthing swooped thru the air like a falcon, Pa sed, and lit on the end of his beak. It happened to be my fist, Pa sed. Look at them knukels, he sed, thay are all swollen.

Deerest luv, sed Ma, I wish you wuddent fite. Fiteing brings out all the brutal instincts of man, sed Ma.

I doant follow you, sed Pa, I think that fiteing with a wife or a child, for instens, wud be a pritty good sort of sham battling, but wen a Russhun with side & front wiskers calls me a pig, Pa sed, then fiteing beecums noabel, like labor. I sure did put a few oaver on that baby, sed Pa. One punch I landed knocked moast of his wiskers down his throte.

Did you tellefone all the paipers & tell them about yure glorus victory? sed Ma. As far back as I reemember our married life, sed Ma, I do not reecall another argument wich you have won. Why doant you send all of the city editors good picters of you. I will rite a poem under it, Ma sed, & will call it Smite the Muscovite. I will tell them, Ma sed, how you mussed up the Grand Duke.

But I dident tell you that he was a grand duke, Pa sed, I jest sed he fought grand.

Bobbie, sed Ma, yure father admits that he fought grand. He thinks, I guess, that we ought for to see the other fellow. I wish I cud beeleeve him at that, sed Ma. After what I have been reading in the news laitly, sed Ma, I doant think that a Grand Duke more or less wud maik much differns. & I wish them Pershans wud kill a lot of them Hassocks.

Them what? sed Pa.

Hassocks, sed Ma, them mounted troopers, Hassocks.

Ha, Ha, Ha, sed Pa. Bobbie, he sed, did you hear what yure mother calls Cossacks?

Then Ma got good & mad & she wuddent talk to Pa any moar.

The Case of Silas Phelps, Murderer

"What did Haskins do? Take his warrant and go like a man to Phelps with it? No; without any warrant, he collected a crowd, and at 3 o'clock in the morning battered his door down and crowded into that little kitchen. God help the mob that tries to batter down MY door at 3 o'clock in the morning without a warrant."
